“Bifurcations and the Future of Humanity”

by Alex Kochkin

These essays are presented for their value to anyone who cares about the future as humanity prepares to make the greatest shift in consciousness and existence ever. We cover a wide range of topics including social-values research, “future-views”, the world situation, and advanced spiritual perspectives.

“GLOBAL AWAKENING means individuals and communities becoming aware of and embracing their true nature – one of interconnectedness, service, and spirituality, as we express extraordinary dimensions of our larger being. “

“Truth or Consequences”

Bifurcations and the Future of Humanity

By Alex Kochkin

Note: The material present here is a bridge between the preceding material on the transformational process and background to a following article on the control over freewill and the engineering of false memes among humanity. For those expecting to be involved in the emergence of an awakened humanity and the building of a new earth, the concepts presented here are tantamount to a basic and advanced field manual to navigate the waters of the initial transition period.

“True Oneness with Original Creation is a high level resonance and attractor through which genuine healing and spiritual evolution can take place.”

Preface

This article is concerned with the enormous choices humanity are being presented with. These choices are stimulated by a combination of the breakdown of the world of the matrix controllers (the-powers-that-be - TPTB) -- and the restoration of connection to higher self and reconnection to Original Source/Creation. One development in this process is multiple bifurcations within humanity and a “vibrational differentiation” that is part of a larger transformational process.

The material contained here is one contribution toward helping people move closer to restoring their true free-will in connection with higher self and Original Creation. This is challenging for people living in a world of distorted social memes, a human world built upon falsehoods. Regardless of what people are being told to believe, the “matrix world” that everyone is conditioned to identify with is falling apart. Thus for growing numbers of people, it will become easier to reject the old and work toward creating something new.

These days it is easier to recognize the falsehoods of the social and political leaders who represent the dominant paradigm -- but that only touches the surface of a much deeper and grave situation. As we have said before, it is important to look both ways before crossing a busy street -- as well as up down and all around.

As more people reject more and more facets of the old reality, including established government, religion, economy, social relations, etc., there will be a natural opening to alternatives. At that point, recognizing falsehood and distortions will not be so straightforward. In anticipation of the period we are now in, deliberate manipulations have been prepared and set in motion, especially in recent decades. Most people who, naively but with good intentions, identify with various social-spiritual-progressive alternatives are, at present and for the most part, unable to distinguish falsehood from what is truth. The core energies and core orientation of most of these groups and leaders have been developed and honed over a period of many decades while the “rank and file” constituencies have been conditioned to accept various falsehoods masquerading as truth. The major religions that humanity recognizes represent only one form of this control. A back-up plan by the dark controllers has been in preparation for the day when the hold of religious institutions weakens as does the social and economic order of the modern world (“old world order”). This back up plan includes today most of the “new age” or “integralist” tendencies that are based upon falsehoods and distortions. We are now in that period. A complex process of social conditioning has been underway a great long time, and intensely accelerated around the time of the development of the atomic bomb. This is a topic that is dealt with in more depth in the article on “meme control” which follows in this issue.

While we can offer general guidance and criteria to those who prefer to exercise discernment, ultimately it is in your connection with your own higher self and true Source that a proper access to truth will be found. Once a conscious relationship with Source and higher self is established, then humanity will find it possible to create a new reality. This is not found in seminars and or from “gurus” -- and it is free to one and all.

In this article we address some of the features of the bifurcations to help navigate the near future. We also continue with the theme of attachment to the old ways, especially for those who gravitate toward spirituality. How to be in the world yet not of it, is one starting point.

The terms, “true Creator” and “original Source” are used interchangeably and signify distinction from the dark forces and false gods who otherwise would have humanity believe them to be the “true” creator gods. (As usual, material in this article should be taken in the larger context of the contents of this issue of Global Awakening News.)

Introduction

In the 1940's there was a radio show called “Truth or Consequences” that later became a very popular television “game show” running on and off for forty years. If a contestant could not adequately address the part concerning “truth” there would be consequences (of a seemingly harmless nature) and usually a “human interest” angle included. More than simple minded entertainment, perhaps this was also a brilliant bit of opportunistic social engineering in which people were programmed to expect that the truth was not always so important and that consequences would be benign, and so helped set the stage for the current level of degeneration of basic awareness as well as social operating ethics.

The baby boom generation was born into an era of falsehoods supported by electronic mass communications and applied research into personal and mass psychology. People all over the world were understandably distracted by the post-war commercial boom, cheery (but false) assumptions that the fascist/axis was defeated in WWII, the allies/western “democracy” won, and that it was possible to learn to “live with the bomb”. Truth? or Consequences? The reality has been that the USA was to become a primary funding, supply, and operations center, rear base camp, and command headquarters of convenience for the most powerful group of global controllers in thousands of years. Fortunately this situation is ending.

How was this managed? Was it all just happenstance or a series of bad choices on the part of various nations' populations? Or is there more to the story? How is it that entire nations and nearly 7 billion people fell under such a “spell”? So one good question would be whether there has been a far-seeing and guiding “hand”, always nudging, tweaking, and occasionally violently shifting human society? If so, for what purpose? While this article mainly concerns itself with the various bifurcations of humanity; the one that follows on “meme engineering” discusses the patterns of the “hidden hand” – connecting more of the “dots” as it would be.

If more can recognize these patterns, then more can leave the old world order. Seeing beyond the illusion of falsehoods also helps those who will be helping create a “new way” for humanity, to recognize patterns that are inherently “back-up” programs of the dark forces designed to assure their continuance.

If there were to be an opportunity to shift from control to cooperation, it will be those who are aware of the deeper patterns of reality that will be able to make a difference as the situations arise. This refers directly to a shifting of influence via consciousness as a powerful energetic intent.) Those who react to the problems perceived by opposing the old paradigm, no matter how righteous their cause, will find themselves further enmeshed with the control matrix energetically and practically. This is an enormous challenge to many today. Holding attachments and reacting against the changes taking place, contribute to unstable oscillations between spiritual orientation and the orientation to physicality and only serve to prolong a painful situation.

It is a nearly impossible situation to be on a transformational or ascension track and “fight” the powers that be or try to correct/fix the appalling situation of 3-d density life that the rule of the-powers-that-be and the dark forces has brought.

That said, there are those individuals who have metaphorically taken on a role to “hold the door open” for others, to “help stop the traffic” to make it easier for more to cross over, or to point in the general direction of transformational change. Of those who have taken on such a role, there are those who have done so without full benefit of connection to their higher true self. Given the challenges to a human personality that is partially aware, it is a rare number who perform such service while retaining a high level of spiritual awareness.

The majority of people who are enmeshed in fighting the righteous fight are doing so out of a genuine desire to effect change but without the benefit of their own higher-self guidance. Hence, they find themselves locked in to the very system they so despise. There are those who say they reject the old ways, but do this more out a negative impulse of protest. Such unconscious attachments necessarily hold many back from their evolution as spiritual beings.

A New “Operating System” and Then Some

The transformational process can be compared to a new “operating system” release that includes special codes to delete much of the falsehoods, distortions, malware, viruses, and spyware –and at the same time effect a huge upgrade to the physical systems as well. At first this is developed by small working groups who in turn act as their own patient/clients. The next level of improvements is then shared with a larger test group. Eventually there is a pilot production run release to a population most able to take advantage of these improvements and who in turn can help increase the new operating system’s effectiveness while engaged in distributing it further. Eventually large numbers of people have received the new operating system and many of the initial recipients are busily engaged helping people everywhere how to get the most out this. While this is occurring, there will be those who basic “wiring” and damaged “operating system” may be incompatible with these new upgrades and will be in need of special remediation.

What is coming up for humanity is the possibility of a new freedom to intend a future that is in accord with our nature as spiritual beings, spiritual evolution, and most importantly in conscious connection and partnership with original Source/true Creator.

Bifurcation Model: Physicality and Spirituality

The question of a bifurcation in social reality is now an urgent and practical matter. There are reports from various “look-aheads” that show new communities of people forming, mostly stimulated by a confluence of crises in societal and planetary environments. If this represents a broad category of “as below” in terms of the bifurcations, then an “as above” counterpart would be a vibrational separation between those vibrating above and those vibrating below some relative threshold. Such a threshold represents a demarcation or differentiation between 3-d existence and higher dimensional existence. From this we coined the term, “vibrationally differentiated” and discuss its significance in the article on transformation and ascension that appears earlier in this issue.

Recently, various bifurcations have been noted by aware observers. In our view, these changes are consistent with the process of Creation engaging in a type of “mitosis” in making new creations, new realities. (It permits a newly birthed creation to develop its uniqueness without influence from what preceded its creation, and so there would be a certain detaching from the creation system that initially birthed it.) In our immediate situation there is a portion of humanity focused on creating a new way of life that would be separating out from the old. An ongoing stream of people would eventually migrate from the old to the new. Just as there will be those migrating to a more evolved life on earth, over time there will be a stream of people “vibrating out” of the old reality and into a new one.

There are two major tendencies within humanity with a great deal of amplification occurring within each group due to deliberate and unconscious influences:

- On one hand, there is a growing number of people moving into alignment with their spiritual evolution than ever before. These individuals are a part of the early waves of humanity who are moving forward in their evolution of consciousness and energetic make-up.
- On the other hand there are those who are enmeshed in physicality and who identify with the dominant paradigm, the control matrix. This latter group includes both those of wealth and social-material power as well as those without wealth or social-material influence. Some who are most vociferous in their opposition to the control matrix may not realize it, but they are overly identified with its fundamental parameters.

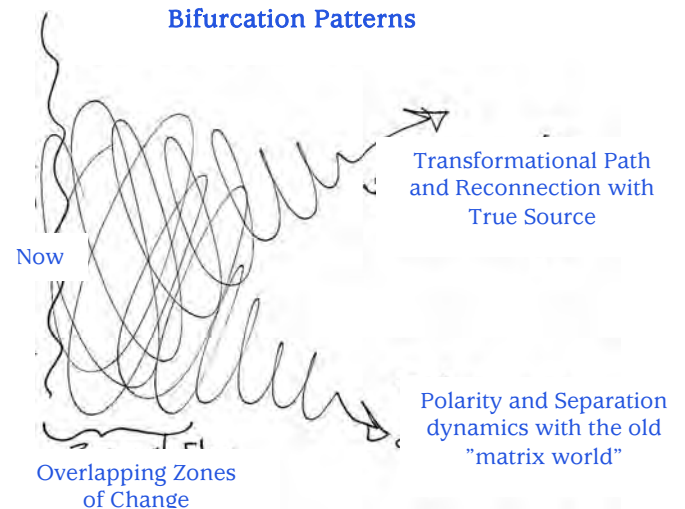

While humanity is generally differentiated in this way, individuals and networks shift between these two paradigms. In response to what they perceive of the world they are in, individuals see-saw back and forth between these two tendencies. Those who would initially say they are spiritually-minded can forget this in a moment and devote all their energy to some political campaign or protest whose false purposes they are unaware of.

There actually are many bifurcations occurring in society in response to various situations relative to the planetary environment, and social, political, and economic environments. There will be a bifurcation between those who deliberately support the insanity of the existing order and those who would opt out. There will be a bifurcation between those who reject the effects of the old ways but do not reject the basic premises of the old (such as the right to private expropriation of wealth). There will be a bifurcation between those attached to the familiar old ways and those who are in the process of rejecting those ways in favor of creating something new that could benefit humanity's social evolution. There will be a bifurcation between peaceful cooperation and violent conflict. There will be a bifurcation among religious adherents as some turn away from the major religions and their controlling doctrines and others stay "adhered". These are all examples of old ways undergoing breakdown and change.

These bifurcations are like a fracturing of society and can expose basic tendencies in the population to better scrutiny. In a period of great disorder, there is a natural tendency to work hard at remaking familiar facets of social order and infrastructure. At the most basic and simple level of individual and social awareness there is a combination of rejecting the old while creating practical alternatives, short and long term. Within a population who are seeking short term responses, there will be an underlying tendency to hope for restoration of "normalcy" or something approximating what has been familiar to them.

One of the most significant of all the initial bifurcations will be between those who embrace (non-religious) spiritual growth and those who do not. In some ways this can be regarded as an "as above/as below" dynamic played out in the sphere of human existence. On the one hand there will be those who identify with higher vibratory existence and expanded awareness and on the other hand, there will be those who maintain their identification and enmeshments with the 3-d world. In the latter tendency, it will not matter if they support or oppose the old order, the dynamic of enmeshment is essentially the same. The fraction of the population identified with ascension and transformation will be changing, always increasing. By 2009, this is likely to become an emerging focus among those who are more spiritually oriented. The initially small fraction of people most likely to become involved in the new energies represents a large number of people, given the size of the human population today.

Attachments – Social and Personal

Recently we had a long phone visit with a friend who is in the process of addressing their life priorities. With all their heartfelt caring for various causes related to local wildlife and community, it was as if they were trying to "fix everything" yet had forgotten about their own higher nature and purpose as a spiritual being. Rather than have money to replace their broken down car or a replacement computer for one that had been damaged, they had added material and energetic baggage to such an extent that they were in a state of material and emotional stress. This person is single, has no unusual personal obligations, no family to support, and has a steady job in a wonderful small town community that they cherish being a part of. In their microcosm of the larger human world, they had set before themselves an impossible situation that in a way reflected a type of human-centric arrogance that every species must be "saved" etc. They had lost track of the larger picture and had not established an adequate connection with some form of personal higher guidance.

The point here in this story is that sooner or later, nearly everyone will find themselves addressing fundamental questions of their existence as a spiritual being. At one point, it was considered "enlightened" to arrive at a point of awareness to simply "be". The question of “why to be” is a vital one at so many levels. This will be one of the challenges to a revitalized Creation. Why to be. This “as above” concept also translates into an “as below” counterpart to our individual human lives at present. This is an important matter to reflect on, as the clarity that results helps us to engage with others and with our environment from a position of free will choice, and not from duty bound obligations that were imprinted on us to habitually carry on. Humans are being presented with another level of challenges – the nature of existence and terms for existing. Are we beings on a spiritual evolutionary trajectory or ego/survival driven bipeds?

As we wrote in the Preface to this issue of GA News, in addressing our attachments, there is the challenge of how to be detached, yet caring. Detached yet loving. Detached, yet engaged with others. For some it is the attachment to helping or “saving” humanity or the attachment to human existence.

At the root of nearly all attachments is the limitation of the human personality mind. From that perspective, this human body-centered life is what there is and trans-dimensional existence is fantastic fiction. Once in connection with ones higher self matrix, this perspective is turned around as existence becomes referenced from a larger context than that of a “personality-self-in-a-body”.

There is an as below/as above principle here – the “as below” component would include your mental and psychological development – but there is only so much human level “processing” in sorting through attachments that one can accomplish. Likewise, there is just so much ordinary human level intellectual and intuitive “clarity” that one can develop and then something akin to an act of faith is needed temporarily. The “as above” component then would be connection through your higher self to help complete the circuit and bridge the gap, eventually to original Creator. Here then is a quality of knowingness that places all attachments in their proper place and a high clarity occurs. With it comes a quality of certitude that makes it possible to transcend what came before.

Positive attachments, such as to ones children, family, or friends, or to fulfilling experience, etc. are tough to overcome. The ascension process does not require it to be either/or, but in the initial stages, attachments prevent access to the process. It is our destiny as spiritual beings. One more favorite cookie, one more person saved from hunger, one more walk in the park...

Tracking Social Bifurcations

It is very significant that HalfPastHuman (HPH) (www.halfpasthuman.com) recently detected language patterns that indicate a global spiritual experience occurring in 2009. They have also been tracking the emergence of various types of “self-organizing collectives” in response to major social, economic, and planetary environment changes.

Quote: “The supporting sets speak to the issue of [experience] and [degrees of perception] such that there appears to be a [schism] which forms in [planet earth humanity] between those to have [accepted/integrated/ internalized] the [“experience”] and those who are either [oblivious] or [in denial]. This causes humans to [review] and [appraise] their [personal allegiance] and [relationships]. The resulting [change of being] for those who [embrace] the [“experience”] will mean that many will [leave/remove family, and previous acquaintances] as their focus turns to [congenial fellow travelers/experiencers]. This [life direction/method] shift is shown with very long term impacts which go beyond the limit of the range, or over 20/twenty years.” - from HalfPastHuman

There is as well, further reference to “contact” (as in ancient true history of population on earth as well as “ET” contact). They have also detected a “human potential” sub-set that includes “siddhis” and “higher mental powers”. This is the first evidence from within the 3-d realm that that offers confirming evidence of a transformational process we have been seeing since the later half of last year. What HPH has not identified is how this could play out and in what time frame. They do note that it is regarded as something with long term effects. In our view their descriptors speak to a likely bifurcation in humanity - at least for the foreseeable future.

In terms of local or global community and a heartfelt desire to “make a difference”, it is a challenge to act with caring and service yet with right detachment. It helps to remember that most of what is wrong and un-right about the old ways and matrix world cannot be “fixed”.

Much at the higher levels continues to be cleared of the dark influences. Enormous changes have taken place just in the span of one earth-year. There is now much freer access exists to the higher realms as referenced from the perspective of the present human 3-d earth reality now that the main fences and walls erected by the dark have been torn down. This situation will continue to improve rapidly. For those who are still deeply enmeshed with the matrix world, they will for a while see mostly growing chaos and troubles amongst the societies of humanity, as well as changes to the planetary environment. This situation provides greater opportunities for more people to reject the old, become more open to something new, to make new intentions for new way of being, and to even act upon these new intentions. Best to be aware when crossing streets.

What truly matters are ones intentions -- are they for the highest good? If your heart and mind is of pure intent, that is what matters most and that you tried your best. For many people their first step will be to turn their backs on an increasingly dysfunctional and cruel system -- "just say no". From this they can be open to something new --perhaps 180 degrees from what they formerly thought was the only possible reality. Intention and how you act upon your intentions, this is what is important.

We are concerned over those involved with attachments with the 3-d world since this represents a negative attractor to many who otherwise would chose a transformational direction for themselves. There will be the growing numbers who will be open to non-religious spirituality who will look around and find many “storefronts” that look and sound spiritual but are really false fronts that were positioned and developed over time under the false influences. Today these carry all manner of labels and appearances but are fundamentally unsound. This is discussed further in the following article on meme control.

There are many who are lulled into thinking that what their limited awareness “knows” is all there is and so conclude to “make the best of it” and “get through it” as if there will be some return to “normalcy”. This too is a falsehood that keeps people enmeshed with the old order. There is a small fraction of people who deliberately hitched their lives to the powers that be, and a large fraction that is in righteous opposition to them. This latter group exhibits many natural reactions to “unrightness”. Of course there are those among these groups who hope there will be some leader, like a new USA president, who will be the “lesser of evils” or may actually be a “closet good guy”. But these are all falsehoods.

Enmeshments – USA National Elections

One very simple example in enmeshment in the old matrix world can be seen in the USA presidential elections. For decades these elections have been rigged in various ways – from the choice of candidates to parade before the public and campaign themes to the manipulation of the election process itself, including the delegates, parties, re-districting, voter eligibility, access to polls, and of course outright ballot stuffing. All this continues today with greater efficiency aided by digital voting systems and the full cooperation of the mainstream media.

Today there remains the total nonsense that is used to lull the habituated voting fraction of the population into voting: “lesser of evils”, “someone hopefully a little better”, “women’s vote”, “black or Hispanic vote”, etc., etc. Then there are those who cannot see the truth and think that voting for a corrupt independent or alternate democrat is a useful “protest vote”. And of course there is the rationale used by those campaigning to not vote for national office, to send a meaningful signal to the powers that be – a protest vote by not voting.

All of these are enmeshments with the matrix world and are a form of attachment. It will not be until there is a more profound transformation of awareness that sees beyond the appearances of what passes for reality, that truly profound social change will be possible.

To those who identify with a higher vibratory existence: To become enmeshed in social-economic struggle for "justice" does not contribute to moving toward a higher vibratory existence, nor does it aid the overall process of transformation. In many ways it will be necessary to walk away from the old order and society at large to better focus on the new transformational processes. Some will try to keep a foot in both worlds, until circumstances require otherwise.

We are now at a precious period going into 2011 in which so much can change -- and change quickly with regard to transformation of our existence.

The question of attachment is central -- attachment to what is deemed to be truth, beauty, and love and joy discovered in this 3-d existence -- as well as the attachment to trauma, fear, and all that is deemed not to be truth or joy or love in this existence. These are all attachments to a way of being that cannot be maintained. Once you shift to a higher level of awareness beauty, truth, and love take on entirely different meaning and significance -- as higher level counterparts to what these words may have been associated with in ordinary human 3-d reality.

More and more people will be considering what is important to them as human beings as well as spiritual beings and will seek or be forced to seek new ways of being with one another and Earth. Those who are more focused upon the spiritual evolutionary path need to be true to this impulse. The more thorough the transformational process, the more likely it will be that there will be more "living bridges" for humanity to leave their old existence. In some ways this is the most effective way to serve the larger processes of spiritual evolutionary change.

Message to the Near Future: Perseverance with Adversity

This is a high-level notional question in two parts: To what extent can the dark distortions be removed from the personal and social meme sphere of humanity -- and so that those of humanity who have a keen vibrational affinity for Earth can evolve without interference, relative to the present situation?

There are those reading this who will be choosing to persevere through the difficult times ahead and who will be involved in the building of a new way of life wherever they will be living. "Building" in this context is more than mere physicality of "doing", rather it refers to the totality of what local community and humanity may choose to project forward. Here it will be by conscious choice and by example. Our research into social-spiritual consciousness and the discovery of important typologies and ways of bridging differences in society represents one set of unique insights and strategies for overcoming falsely manipulated differences among people. (See A New America, An Awakened Future On Our Horizon at www.pfcn.net)

No doubt there will be those who will want to maintain and restore the basis of most of present day inequality: right of owners to expropriate wealth from the work of others. This involves ownership of finance, physical property, and intellectual capital. Other than the danger from "might makes right" survivalism, this precedence of ownership will initially be one of the most difficult memes to grow out of.

There will be at this level of existence, evidence of a primary bifurcation of humanity -- on the one hand those repeating the old patterns and on the other hand, those who are creating something new that is in cooperation with original Source/Creation. There will be those who will want to think they are creating something new, such as more efficient non-polluting energy source, but until their core values and beliefs are being informed by connection to higher self and in cooperation with Creation, their efforts will not represent a spiritually enlightened and evolved future. There may well be limited, pragmatic value in applying certain technologies, but our concern here is with the greater underlying patterns and where they lead.

The problems of developing a new type of social politics, one that can embrace a “civil spirituality” that acknowledges connection true God/Source/Creator, will also be subtly challenged by those who will wear the appearances of a “new spirituality” but who will be really be about maintaining the falsehood of the dark forces. This has already appeared under the guise of “integral culture”, “new age”, “new thought”, “spiritual green”, etc., and even under the banner of “global awakening” and “oneness”. We are not saying that all those who are involved in these tendencies are “bad”, just misled. Many will simply follow a new flag that looks more attractive to them than a familiar one of the old order that they reject.

“...There are deeply ingrained/embedded dark force memes and other programming resident in the human population. Like a self-executable computer file these can emerge and amplified and start the troubles on earth all over again.”

Crossroads

As long as you are of a sentient life on this Earth there are choices to be made that have importance to your spiritual energetic matrix and beyond. The net or overall choices made by the total of individuals who make up humanity have wide implications to true Creation as well.

We are living in the end stages of the evolution of the experiment known as “humanity on Earth” and it is time to graduate to the next level. The birth process is being amplified as we are on the final cycles of a rapid and complicated “labor”. The crux of the matter can be simply stated for humanity and for each person:

- reconnection with Original Source and higher self, or
- separation from Source under the false creation of the dark forces

It can all be distilled to that, as that is what we have come to, our underlying bifurcation point and major crossing.

As a practical matter, it would be best to assume no "fine print" loopholes in this. Humanity is now in a new time flow and new energies that specifically do not support the old influences and paradigm, Rather, they are designed to support new patterns of creation. In considering the transformational and ascension process, it is tempting to say not to worry, it will all get sorted out eventually. If we do make a clearer choice and at the very least set our intention to be clear of all the dark influences, I would like to think that this can facilitates the process. In my view, it is the very least we can do, rather that keep up the old motions and wait for everything to change.

Many would ask, if I don't know whether I am connecting to false creation or true creation? How can I tell the difference? Doesn't it take a special kind of seer or psychic, or something like that? How can I be expected to learn this in such a short time?

Look around you and look within and ask yourself a few simple questions: What is my true intention for myself? For others? For humanity? For earth?” For Creation? How do I act or behave in a society that overall seems at-odds with truth? Am I looking to build up my-self first? Is success for my-self what is most important? For my children? My clan? My gender? My belief system? etc. My species? Do I regard being an individual and separate as freedom and primary to my existence? Can I imagine what this means for the entire human species to base its collective self on this premise? Is the human species most important? Is my relationship to my “god” one in which I ask my “god” to be my trump card so I, myself, can “succeed” in what I desire for myself? Or perhaps I call upon “god” only when in a state of pain or personal crisis? Perhaps you are full of self-confidence of your own abilities and thus you test yourself against others, always finding ways to improve yourself.

Where in all this is your relationship with original Source, and higher self?

Preservation of self and body is a natural protective mechanism, self-aggrandizement is not. Self-first perspectives in the context of omission of partnership with true Source of Higher Self emanate from dark force conditioning. While the personality self is a valid and real aspect of the greater collective self, it has been living in a reality in which it is unaware of its greater self and regards itself as the sole and primary self. Due to personality mind overrides, the divine right and divine urge for direct connection to higher consciousness, to true Source/God, is subordinated to manipulative fictions of formal religions. For those who are non-religious, such a role is fulfilled by various “teachers” and “gurus” of the “spiritual” or “techno-scientific” genres.

Thus it is easy to see how true cooperation has been rendered nearly impossible by these distortions. From research conducted at the turn of the millennium, 43% of US adults believed God or higher consciousness was separate from themselves. Given this, it is no wonder that as people begin to seek something more and look beyond their personality ego-self, various teachings are promoted that purport to address this deep longing for awakened reunion and ascension – yet really feed a focus on self with promises and premises that are rooted in separation from original Source.

Consider asking within yourself each day, and with focused intent to be cleared of interferences, to connect with your higher self, and to connect to higher self and original Source. This will help start a new process for you. At times you may encounter issues with your personality mind or lower personality levels. Ask for help from your higher self to help reassure your 3-d self that there is no loss, only growth.

A Tale of Two Dowsers

Drilling for water is expensive and generally a blind guess. Depth, direction of flows, and overall expected water volume at a given level are part of “the job”.

Two dowsers are engaged, both use copper clad steel bent welding rods to locate water. One relies on their own proven technique to locate water. The other relies on their spiritual awareness to allow God work through them to help find water.

It is the latter dowser who is very exact and highly successful at locating water and depth and direction of flow. The former is only relatively successful when compared to a well drill operator who only observes the surface and nearby well log data and is thus making an educated guess, although financially risky to the client.
