Global Awakening News
– Edition Finé –

Commentary and Guidance for Enlightened Change
During Rapidly Changing Times

These essays are presented for their value to anyone who cares about the future as humanity prepares to make the greatest shift in consciousness and existence ever. We cover a wide range of topics including social-values research, “future-views”, the world situation, and advanced spiritual perspectives.

"Global awakening means individuals becoming aware of and embracing their true nature and destiny as embodied spiritual Beings. This truth goes beyond the limitations of historical beliefs concerning self, time, space, and matter. This realization concerns remembering who and what we are beyond the ordinary considerations of self as well as activating new dimensions of Being never before realized. The vastness of this destiny is such that it can only be known as it creates itself."

About This Issue

Comments on this Final Issue

- We considered sending this concluding issue out in sections, but the material needed to be collected together into this longest of all issues. There are three main sections: “State of the Vision – Summary and Overview”, “In the ‘As Below’ – The Matrix World Order”, “Awakening and Ascension – A Singular Resolution”, as well as other articles that bear on these topics. While there is some repetition between and within sections, it is mainly for emphasis or to develop specific points. As always, it is good to read between the lines since much was deliberately unstated. Some may find an ambiguity where they would prefer more definition. “Will humanity make it or not” would be one question that does not lend itself to a simple “yes or no”. I hope that enough of the complexity of the situation is conveyed through these pages. As a concluding issue, it also coincides with “graduation commencement” process for many. Congratulations are in order!
- Individual articles will also be posted individually at the PFCN website “Articles and Bulletins” section and NES forums. This concluding issue brings most of what has been expressed in GA:News full circle with the present situation. We raise certain points concerning ascension and the future of humanity that some may find troublesome and challenging. Please feel free to email us at info@pfcn.net and to check in at the NES Forums <http://www.newearthsummit.org/forum/> for updates and commentary.

An Online Tele-Call?

- I am considering a tele-conference call to answer specific questions or requests. If anyone is interested, please email us at info@pfcn.net and include comments or questions that you would like to see addressed. The format would be that questions are emailed in advance, I will likely talk for at 30-45 minutes and then we will be open for questions.

Gratitude and Thank-you’s

- We wish to convey our gratitude and appreciation to each person in this group for their tremendous spiritual intelligence and persistence in being. John, Tish, and I and other contributors so appreciate the supportive and thoughtful comments we have received. A sampling is included in this installment to the concluding material of Global Awakening News. Thank you one and all!

Western Montana 20 acres and much more: Anyone for land-based self-sufficiency and cooperative community or their own private retreat?

- Our twenty-acre Montana property is available! While we would love for others to join us here, we are also considering turning the entire project over to others however and relocating. Regardless of our decision, this beautiful location is capable of supporting a substantial “family and friends” compound or retreat center. In terms of land, it feels bigger than it is and is in the most mild climate area in all of Montana. It would make an excellent location for those preferring a rural land-oriented way of life and still be connect to “civilization”. We encourage one or more households to consider cooperating on this project. This would make an excellent teaching and retreat center or simply a personal or family self-sufficient compound. See www.gnn-1.net for details as well as the summary information and photos in this issue.

Non-English translations of Global Awakening publications -

- With much thanks to the gracious efforts of volunteers, Global Awakening News articles and related is being translated into Dutch and Spanish. There are posted to the main Articles and Bulletins directory <http://www.pfcn.net/napsum-bull.html>. Any experienced translators wishing to help with non-English translations, please email us at info@pfcn.net.

Final Notice on Updates: The “A-List”

- With this concluding issue, we will cease using the Constant Contact list service. If you wish to receive future updates please email us at info@pfcn.net subject: “A-List”

HTML Version of Global Awakening News

- As time permits, all of the material from GA News will be converted to plain HTML, and loaded to a “web blog” for greater accessibility. This will make it easier for more people to search and read.

State of the Vision

By Alex Kochkin

“The present version of the omni-present ‘matrix world’ must come to an end. There has been no failure on the part of humanity, given its circumstances. It is time for a new evolution of existence. Changes will come about from a combination of catastrophic changes to the planetary environment and to the energetic or vibrational state of reality, stimulated by forces beyond most human imagination. ... This does not mean that all human life is over, but it does mean that the power of the dark control be removed and the human meme-sphere be changed in favor of cooperation and equality and conscious connection to true self.”

Preface

This “State of the Vision” is a somewhat lengthy wide-ranging summary. The material presented in this issue may be very challenging for some and we encourage your email responses (info@pfcn.net). I have tried to touch upon topics and return to them later sections and so ask your patience as you move through this material. Some may wonder, what if there are no “big” changes? In these articles I directly and indirectly address this as well as the greater impulse for total change to a new level of existence. Those who are awakening know the truth of what is needed and it quickly becomes a very personal matter between the human personality self and higher soul self.

I would like to call your attention to a section titled “‘Making Things’ – Ways of the New Creation” (see page 69). It describes facets of the new existence and offers a challenging counter-point to what passes as “reality” in 3d as present.

I do not know the specific timing and details of the changes to our state of existence as human or to the 3-d Earth. It is a “work-progress”. At times we will very little advance notice of major transitions. The larger process is underway now and requires some time to run its course among humanity. It is being coordinated as best as possible with the planetary changes that are on the agenda. I am not aware of any human-level activities that could alter this course.

What I do know, is the urgency of the vibrational changes relative to spiritual evolution, the accelerating degeneration of an already degraded existence that humanity is mired in, and the likelihood of major changes to the planetary environment. These things are not in some hazy far-off time, they are quite imminent in terms of months and a few years.

That said, there is a growing concordance between the work of a handful of original researchers, and information from some seers and intuitives concerning the most likely near-term future of 3d humanity on earth. This is like joining together insights from the “as below” realm of human 3d and insights into “as above” realm of higher dimensional awareness and “field of potentials”.

It is my working assumption that we are rapidly moving into a singularity of realities and time from which everything will get sorted out and brought into connection and harmony with Creator again. Thus we are finding ourselves in a singular reality where the “field of potentials” is no longer dispersed over various timelines and dimensions. This will also make it easier to see what is coming of the major events in terms of external signs as well as through a direct intuitive knowing. “Singular reality” does not mean that earthly 3d is the only reality only that we are a part of “the reality”. Therefore this “singular-ness” does not preclude a higher dimension reality, “new earth”, etc. Aware humans may find a vibrational bifurcation occurring that is part of the larger transformational process that we suggested a few years ago as being implemented.

If one is overly focused on any socially-programmed future outcome to ones human life, the information in this concluding issue can be very unsettling, including the uncertainty of it all when seen from 3d level. We discuss the end of this civilization, earth changes, and ascension, but at the core is the question of the nature of our existence as humans on earth. If one is excessively attached or connected to the existing order of people and things, it is best to find ways to practice detachment as soon as possible. One can still care about important things, but it must be done with deliberation and practiced consciously.

Over the years, I have had many “viewings” of human situations that were obviously post-catastrophe. I do not have the details, but it was evident that the “earth” I was visiting had relatively few humans compared to present. Most of the changes seemed to have been planetary changes, but there was one set of sequences that specifically warned of the increasing possibility of the use of major nuclear weapons in a city somewhere. There were also future messages concerning a deadly pandemic that was primarily caused by vaccine but the city I was viewing had suffered much destruction from something like earthquakes. The range of catastrophes included wars, disease, earthquakes, tsunamis, massive surface flooding, changes to the polar spin axis, changes to the tilt of the earth’s spin axis, crustal slips shifts, and more. Some viewings were as if at ground level with the people present, others were from high up or out in space.

What I was impressed with in these “future viewings” was the spiritual and emotional qualities of the future humans as well as the relative simplicity of material life. Some had computers and communication technologies in the midst of a pristine pastoral setting, complete with modest dwellings, a sense of restored environment and children who I would have played with in the tall grasses if I could have. One community had prepared itself to withstand massive tidal inundations, far inland in NE Canada. Others included transitional settlements in North America, from plains to high mountains to the USA west coast, one of which was focused on ascension. There were many images and conversations that I witnessed in these episodes. With only one exception, there were no specific dates given. So I can only regard these as potential futures. Throughout the information I retained from these “excursions” over a period of years, I found a striking consistency and coherency with regard to their details.

When years later I found very sensible explanations from the work of catastrophe researchers, there was a remarkable consistency with what I had been seeing. Yet still, there is always the nagging question: perhaps researchers and future viewers alike were tapping into a similar field of potentials? Or were they more highly probable, ranging into definite? We will only know from early signs from the earth, the sun, and our own altering states of consciousness and existence. These will be temporal markers, to compare what is evident in physicality to what is anticipated from future viewing. Even with a close match-up, there is not 100 % certainty of what will play out and what will be experienced at this level of existence. The most significant signs begin later this December. Updates will be made by email when there is something of sufficient importance, otherwise, there will be postings at the NES Forums.

As I point out elsewhere in this concluding issue, there are two ways to make material objects: Violently through mining and manufacture or through spiritual consciousness interacting with “matter” consciousness. This simple distinction carries profound implications relative to post-catastrophe humans.

Spiritual consciousness and a higher vibrational existence cannot be developed or attained through the arrogance of this civilization with its material basis in violence against nature and against one another and an obsessive and petty preoccupation with acquiring data and things.

At the next stage of evolution, “True-self” will be replacing “ego-personality-self” as the primary expression of individuation for that portion or aspect of our larger soul being. For some there will be an interim or transition process, for others the transition will pass quickly.

Meanwhile, humans will need to find ways to “get a grip” on themselves and keep their wits about them. Focusing on cooperative community based on trust, caring, service is one place to start, for some it will be more of an inner focus.

The Run Up To 2012 and A Bit Beyond, An Overview

This is the “end of time”, not just because of ancient calendrical artifacts, but because this is the end of all cosmic cycles that ancient seers and scientists carefully recorded for us today.

While there are irreconcilable debates over the “Mayan Calendar”, there is no question this is the end of major cycles of time in relationship to the known path of this planetary system relative to the stars. The main differences can be boiled down into the following:

- some date in or around 2012 marks this major change in cosmic cycles and marks a consciousness change taking place
- the date also indicates cataclysmic changes in the planetary environment
- it is only a date that marks astronomic transits, nothing more

Among these categories there are various scenarios being promoted involving solar catastrophe, planet-x/niburu, ice sheet displacements, asteroids, comets, a binary star, etc. One popular “consciousness shift” advocate has made up a story involving the earth’s magnetics dropping, a magnetic field reversal occurring, and a simultaneous increase in the earth’s natural resonance between the ground surface and the conductive ionosphere (Schumann harmonics). There are variations of this, all being naively accepted as authoritative “science”. These stories “conveniently” muddle magnetic field changes with changes to the crustal and axis of rotation. (Incidentally, magnetic field reversal is a safe and non-controversial topic.) Most people do not know the difference. All they hear is something vague about changes in “consciousness” and they automatically project their own desires into the mix. Why does the story persist? Because it is crafted to sound like dramatic changes, and then deliberately softens this like a fluffy blanket. Audiences like this “happy face” version and so it gets retold year after year.

What I find most troublesome is a hidden agenda that hints at a vague consciousness change and that seeks to assure the audience that there are no violent changes to the physical or social reality, ergo the material realm of humanity will be what you/humans make of it. In short, we remain trapped in the “matrix world” under the control of the powers-that-be who, if they could, would promote an illusion of “consciousness shift” and usher in a “new age”, perhaps under the signpost of “the integral” and “universal oneness”. But it would be the same prison, only redecorated.

To make matters worse, there is now a false “oneness” campaign that is deliberately piggybacking on all this and co-opting Mayan elders to take on an air of authority that appeals to mass naiveté. The 440-member National Mayan Council of Elders headed by Don Alejandro Oxlaj and other councils, such as the Grand Maya Itza Council, are promoting a “business as usual” approach past 2012.), although Don Alejandro Oxlaj does ask whether we will experience a “second sun”. From what I have learned, those representing “the Mayan Elders” mostly hadn’t a clue about all of this until recently and had to play catch-up, relying on “outside” sources in order to appear “on top of their form” for various mainstream and alternative media. The various Mayan calendars, as with many other ancient calendars, encompassed some combination of cosmic cycles, time waves, and astronomic events.

These remarks are included here to make the point of how little humans today know about these matters important and how foolish it can be to rely upon external authority.

Regardless of whether one or another ancient calendrical system can be proven to warn of catastrophic planetary changes, there are enough cogent sources indicating major changes the 3d social and physical reality that are oncoming straight ahead. “As above and so below”, the astronomical and earthly time periods are ending. This is also the end of karmic and reincarnational cycles as well as the sadly manipulated history of this version of “humans on earth”. All will be changing. Yet it is perfectly understandable that there would be tremendous disbelief and denial. It is all so very understandable how many wish that everyone be included in the transformational process. And so everyone will be –but not necessarily while embodied.

For those still addicted to channeled material, here is something to chew on, two prominent channelers, a few days apart, have exactly opposite notions: one say they are seeing two moons in the sky and their “source” says how great that is that they are seeing other dimensions toward ascension. The other channeler says that if you are seeing two moons in the sky, that is not good and warns you have gone backwards, etc. Ninety-eight percent of channelers have never “come clean” about basic dynamics of the dark forces and the problems of humans on earth. Never. One of the most common ploys is to place the blame on humans per se, or on the souls that are operating the humans. This fails a basic “litmus test”. At this point in time, any channel source that is not clear on these basic points is obviously “out of the loop” or a disinformation source for the dark –human or otherwise.

In addition to the above, there are those promoting a “new humanity” or a “new earth” to “counter” the “2012-doom”. While their initial promises evoke something of higher dimensional consciousness, the actual approach is overly intellectual and based in the old paradigm. What they advocate is that humans can somehow evolve from the present morass and make the planet and human society pristine. The process of how this is to occur involves supporting the existing political system and the global controllers’ global warming/false oneness schemes. This fits too neatly into the “new age” as a façade to global fascism.

These days I am feeling alternately elated and dismayed. The dismay comes mostly from reflecting on what could have been at so many levels from the Intention of Creation –and partly from a wistfulness connected to personal “wish-lists”. The elation comes from seeing the source of all pain and sorrows coming to an end at long last and the opening to the renewed possibilities of Creation. (The section on ascension section discusses this further.)

So many people, regardless of their spiritual beliefs (or lack thereof) will be soon enough be finding in themselves the capacity for what might be called “prayerfulness”. Whatever it is that first triggers this, it will be immense and overwhelming to ordinary human consciousness. People will be asking for guidance and protection as well as “making amends” internally for whatever wrongs they feel they may have been involved with in this lifetime. This is one of the many qualities that comes from a Near Death Experience (NDE) in which one connects with higher soul and God/Creator/Source. There is a profound level of surrendering to ones higher spiritual nature. What follows, will be something between the individual self and their soul self. I wish to make it clear that I am referring to the NDE as a familiar model, and I do not know the extent to which masses of people will have spiritual NDE’s. My point is that external or internal events will be such that large numbers of people will be internally connecting to the higher levels. For others it may be that crisis and suffering will inspire them to surrender to a “higher spiritual power”, however it may be that they frame it in their mind.

While the “blink of an eye” may be personally appealing, I expect it will take time for every person and every soul involved to be caught up by the process. But at the moment of the personal changeover, it may feel like a “blink”. From the end of this December on, I anticipate inner experiences occurring that are shared at higher levels of awareness by increasing numbers of people, albeit a small percentage of the overall population. No doubt some will find ways to share this outwardly through forums and direct conversation.

The tendency has been toward the collapsing of all alternate realities and timelines into a singularity where all can be changed together. It is from that point on that things get sorted out more properly.

“...when presented with spiritual Truth and Beauty, most humans have an innate ability to recognize or at least appreciate it for what it is. However, they will need a powerful inner experience in order to shake off the spell of the illusions of implanted control patterns and accumulated false memory.”

The “big changes” seem more imminent every day. The growing human turmoil is only an indicator in the “as below” realm of 3d to something much greater. While many here would like to know the schedule for the really “big waves”, this whole process is being guided in ways that are not conducive to premature announcements for our convenience.

Calendar periods for the major changes to be especially alert to are: late December 2009 to early January 2010 and then through March 2010, November 2010 through January 2011, Spring 2012 and then November-December 2012.

From recent correspondence, there are those who are already aware of alterations occurring to their physical being and consciousness. This will only accelerate. Major earth changes are anticipated to be occurring and will increase in frequency and magnitude. In some ways, this will help many people with personal reflection and time to consider what preparations they need to make. The initial changes in the physical environment that humans will likely experience would be from 2011 into 2013.

These days, I find myself settling in with these changes a little more cheerfully. It is getting easier to see the energetic surreality of this reality and its apparent non-solidity and to observe our human level interactions as surreal projections of a projection. This perspective is from a higher-self perspective that is being processed fairly directly through my human self.

And there are times when I look around with delight at where we live and work and consciously enjoy the illusion of it. It seems to be a way of letting go, of saying goodbye to the old while still here. When focused into our little island of physical reality, there are many vantage spots where it all looks “picture perfect” like something out of a fairy-tale book. The garden and house, the mountains and sky framing the valley, the big trees and the grassy meadows, the light on the land. And there are times when it all goes a bit transparent blue-white. Of course those who can only think in terms of square feet and yards cannot see this, only what the “control matrix” allows them to see.

Energies are building for extraordinary events at many levels before 2012. This is all part of a larger ascension and transformation process. At the human consensus reality level, there will be system breakdowns, earth changes, then even bigger human system breakdowns, more earth changes, etc., escalating as the process advances.

From our larger level of awareness, the petty details as to “who did what to whom and why” in the human realm are not important and not worth spending energy on. Major changes or perturbations to our physical planetary environment help loosen the hold of the global controllers as well as that of our own illusions of our existence. Some of the terrible actions among humans, whatever the apparent cause, have the potential to catalyze more people to let go of their illusions of this level of awareness and to surrender to their own higher self and connection to Creator/God/ etc. It is like turning up the contrast so there are less shades of grey and important features become more noticeable. Many will resist the changes; but this is not from errant freewill, they simply cannot otherwise help themselves.

If we are correct, that this is also the end of the cosmic cycles, reincarnation and karmic influences, and an end to the dark influences, then indeed we are moving into a space of existence in which our evolutionary future is one that can be created as we move through it. This is a higher vibrational space with a higher vibrational consciousness that would be free from all the old influences of human society of the recent or ancient past. The basis for the ego personality self as it is at present would also cease.

I have not really said this quite so directly before but I feel it is important to state: Why would we (humanity) want to retain memory of all that came before and of our present personal lives that is based primarily and fundamentally on falsehoods –especially if the price of such recollections and such technological advances is to replicate the dark control memes and thus resurrect the dark? Given the measures that creation has been taking to help resurrect humanity from the dark control as well as the fallen portion of creation, why?

What is most important for the evolution of humanity and its civilization are not its material accomplishments, sciences, vast cities, territories populated, etc. What is most important is how people live in conscious connection to creator and to their own higher self without the control of priest classes and political power struggles. Too many ancient records found on present day earth have been used to justify much conflict and suffering under various false political, economic, and religious pretexts. What would be most important to a future population? To reacquire the violence of manufacturing technologies and social class power – or to learn spiritual ways of shaping the material world that do not do violence to the world and that do connect to Creator/Source? To puzzle over various contentious perspectives about recent and ancient events, mostly based upon distortions? And to what end? It would be like discovering amazing records of Atlantis. Most would marvel over the material accomplishments, some would marvel over their esoteric knowledge. And some would argue over their translations and subsequent interpretations as to whether the humans in that civilization were in serious error in how they conducted themselves. Meanwhile, what becomes of the present humanity?

Planetary and Solar Changes and “2012”

As seen from intuitive and higher levels of awareness, humans are rarely able to assemble a coherent picture of manifestation and even less, an accurate timeline, especially within the short span of years or decades. But the impressions formed are nevertheless relevant and provide insights that limited 3d perspectives are not capable of forming. To me, a few hundred years ago seems like yesterday, a few thousand, the recent past. There is good evidence that earth and this planetary system had a very different configuration as recently as only 5,000 to 6,000 years ago. As well, the earth crust has shifted many times in the geological history. As to past changes to the tilt of the axis of rotation, there can only be conjecture.

It is extremely important to bear in mind that when seen from the levels of and near 3d existence, these events take on dire and disturbing qualities than when they are seen from the higher levels. There are various reasons for this. One would obviously be that the higher levels are more removed from the visceral nature of these occurrences as experienced at 3d human level. Another would be that from the higher levels, the human 3d experience is only one of many facets of existence and the problems of the personality self as a projection of a projection are viewed and experienced very differently. There is also the possibility that in so many ways these events will not be as severe.

It is very important in considering scenarios of major earth changes to do the utmost to shift your point of view to your higher self where the root of your human self can be found. This has to do with self-realization. Who are you, what are you, ...really? Failing to do this results in forms of misguided survivalism under a limited 3d awareness –or forms of despair or denial. I am including remarks on earth changes as it is something of much interest to many.

Over the years, I have had many waking and night visions, dreams, future forwards, time shift overlays, etc. Some were only “potentials” and others highly probable. Through all these I found a strong thread of consistency and concordance. This has mostly remained a private matter that I would refer obliquely to from time to time in writing when it seemed appropriate. It seems that this is an appropriate context in which to summarize some of these.

During the August-September period of this year a set of parameters were presented to our higher-selves to respond to. The story was that certain changes at many levels of reality would be happening and there would be no way around it: therefore, how do you (higher soul self) wish to experience or participate in these events and how do you want to address this with your human 3d level? Not all these “events” are ones

“Oasis of the Sea”, An Ark?

It is interesting that the “Oasis of the Seas” was launched this week: the largest passenger vessel in the world. Its capacity is approximately 8000 including crew and took roughly 3 years and $1.5 billion to build. What is very interesting is that a “sister ship” is in the works and would likely be built in less time. These are not massive cruise ships for the entertainment of people with thousands of dollars to spend per cruise, but more likely “arks” intended to hold and protect some of the world’s elite. Certainly it would be one logical “hedge” against underground cities since there is a good possibility that few would survive a major crustal shift deep underground.

that would be plain to the human 3d level, many pertain to larger energy patterns at various levels of our higher self.

The following paragraphs are a general summary of future events I have seen and that have concordance with the future viewing of others as well as with the work of a small number of researchers focused on 2011-2013 period and planetary changes. There are various ways this future viewing is experienced, sometimes it is a direct overlay while walking or driving in an area; sometimes it is as if one is very high up or out in space seeing the events unfold; sometimes in waking or night dreaming/visions; sometimes it is simply a direct knowing when in contemplation.

Crustal slip-shift relative to inner portion of the earth. Enormous oceanic waves. The “sloshing of oceans” that continues on for many years after the planet “quiets down”. As to a pole shift, I have seen from a remote viewpoint out in space/time a change to the tilt of the earth's axis. The north pole appeared to be in the NW region of Russia and the new spin axis angle seemed more “vertical” than its present 23.5 degrees. Influx of various solar and other space energies that would tend to support the notion of various prophecies of “age-ending cosmic fire”. Asteroids impacting the oceans, plowing up enormous waves. Earthquakes and volcanics growing in number and magnitude. I have seen examples of devastated cities and noticed warnings about a disease vaccine that caused much death. In one area in the future there were whales swimming among the flooded ruins of a city, taking a keen interest in seeing first hand how the humans lived.

Overall, a crustal slip/shift helps explain many things, including ancient and modern descriptions of the earth standing still, the sun setting opposite as it does today, stars “falling”, and many other phenomena. Magnetic, gravitational, and other dynamics would facilitate the more fluid or plastic inner portion of the earth to move differently than the outer crust. Moving gradually and as well as in fits and starts, the process would bring about immense destruction of human and natural structures.

Researchers, examining geology, fossils, geo-chemistry, and ancient maps, have found good evidence for multiple crustal slip/shifts and associated changes in the surface location of the Earth's spin axis. The most recent information that may pertain to this enormous planetary change is from 10,000 to 12,000 years ago when there was a sudden onset of glaciation and a sudden subsequent melting of the ice sheets. Another major change was sometime around 21,000 years ago. The timing of these rapid changes coincide with planetary cycles noted by various ancient observers, not just the Maya. Examination of data spanning hundreds of millions of years suggests various locations for the North pole of the earth's spin axis: The Pacific Ocean region between Hawaii and the USA West Coast, another in the Hudson Bay region of Canada, and yet another around the Greenland Sea. Relative to the inner structures of the earth, the crust has shifted considerably and rapidly at times. It appears that crustal shifts moved in stages and in a fairly short time, contrary to the early notions of a creeping “gradualism”. Many of these instabilities may have involved interactions between earth and other planets and other large bodies. It is very interesting that sea plankton fossils were discovered roughly 4 miles deep under the earth's crust in far NE Russia.

I would presume that much of the sophisticated cosmology from ancient times came from seers, shamans, spiritual teachers, etc. who were directly aware of other levels of existence beyond human 3d. These individuals were also most likely the ones who helped to describe and define the early planetary catastrophes of thousands of years ago and helped to develop ancient celestial observatories and calendar systems. Elements from ancient information points to Venus appearing as if a comet lit up with plasma trails around 6,000 years ago as well as the possibility that Earth had a different orbit, closer to Saturn and Jupiter than at present. One could expect that the cataclysmic disturbances of planetary movements in our solar system influenced massive crustal or orbital shifts of the Earth and other planets thousands of years ago. The intensity of the changes associated with the death of many ancient large mammals suggests very fast, powerful forces, given that the remains had been torn apart. Perhaps these forces were connected with what pulled the oceans out of their beds as described in many ancient records.

Enigmatic or bizarre as it may seem to some, I and a few others have seen something resembling Earth leaving its orbit and this solar system in the future. An essay on this topic from a good colleague appears in this issue, titled “Once Upon A Time”.

As to dramatic earth changes, we would anticipate warning signs from our environment. Indicators would include the sun’s heliosphere or the earth’s magnetosphere, unusual solar flares, perhaps interacting with other planets, dramatic changes to the earth’s magnetic field, unusual phenomena in the earth’s atmosphere, rapid changes in the oceans, electrical and magnetic changes in the earth, displacement of seawater from uplifting submarine crust, dramatic increases in earthquakes and volcanics, sounds from within the earth or from the sky, unusual bodily changes, and altered states of consciousness. So far, these indicators have not stood out sufficiently, with the exception of an increase in earthquakes through 2009 in number and magnitude and a moderate increase in volcanism.

It is not at all possible for anyone to say with certainty what event will cause another event to occur. There are some good speculations from some thoughtful researchers each of whom represents some portion of the real truth. We will try to post a selection of these at NES Forums as time permits. What indications might precede a crustal slip or major changes to the angle of the earth’s spin axis? What might trigger such planetary events? There are many possibilities and such enormous changes are all closely linked. (One major volcanic eruption in Indonesia in 1815 contributed to two to three years of near perpetual winter across much of the Northern Hemisphere.) A few examples that have been thought through by various researchers: A large shift of polar region ice or massive ocean waves; Magnetic field effects connected with the sun; A passing asteroid or comet; the 2012 Venus transit. Is our solar system part of a far-reaching binary system as some pre-Vedic astronomers thought? Given the complexity of these dynamics, and the likely changes to the Earth, speculating about the details loses importance.

What most people forget when contemplating changes of great magnitude is that life is not over upon death from the physical body and that ascension is not just something that happens to those who are conscious and embodied.

The human “you” is only one facet or aspect of a very real and very much greater “you”.

These changes understandably stimulate in many concerns over “survival”. But I must ask what it is that is to be sustained of humanity and why? “Survival by any and all means”, as advocated by militaristic survivalists, only perpetuates the old paradigms and passes along trauma and suffering through the children. What is humanity’s purpose in existing? Where are the transformational qualities of higher consciousness in our lives? Those humans who deliberately choose to survive, no matter what, need to deeply consider what it is they are surviving for: To perpetuate the present-era dark paradigm? To perpetuate themselves and their “meme-pool” through their children (gene-pool)? To be re-connected to their higher nature as spiritual beings and become one basis for a new humanity? Consider the implications of such disparate communities of people –one whose existence is based upon violence and self-centered arrogance, another based upon qualities of higher spiritual consciousness.

Since I had already been through so much of the process and problems of a global awakening, I have regarded most predictions of planetary changes by seers and intuitives not as warnings as to what could happen if humans didn't wake up. Rather, I considered them to simply be direct future viewings of what was likely or possible to occur over time, even if the specific timing was not available. Furthermore, most of the clear information that came in to human awareness through such individuals was only a miniscule portion of what was being considered at our higher self levels and beyond. A glimpse of the seriousness of our situation is reflected in the broad timeline published in the August 2009 issue of GA:News (link: "Fall from Grace & The Return of Light" <http://www.pfcn.net/Bulletins/Fall%20from%20Grace%20-%20Return%20of%20Light%20-%20Aug%202009.pdf>).

End of Civilization?

For some people, the question is whether the planet and sun will permit life to go on as it has. For others it more a question of the degree to which these changes will take place and the timing for certain transformational energies (including changes that science types like to discuss) to occur. However it is considered, we are in a period of catastrophic changes to our social and physical reality.

In short, it is my sense that this is the end of this human civilization at a level not experienced since the last similar cataclysms from as recently as mere thousands of years ago. I have not seen anywhere near earth's population surviving through these events into the coming decade –not on this version of earth in 3d vibratory space. My personal sense has been that less than 10% of the present earth population physically lives through all of this. I also have seen "proper assistance" from what we might call higher dimensional "ET's" –the "good guys" who are spiritually aligned with the Light. As to the dark side ET's, I expect they would no longer be around, however that would be accomplished.

What most people forget when contemplating changes of great magnitude is that life is not over upon death from the physical body and that ascension is not just something that happens to those who are conscious and embodied. The human "you" is only one facet or aspect of a very real and very much greater "you". These are very important to bear in mind and contemplate.

Over the most recent centuries, there have been many very great earthquakes and volcanic eruptions throughout the world. In those times, there was a much smaller population and relatively little infrastructure. Rural and town populations lived from the land nearest them. Trade for complex articles and information exchanges took place slowly, given the tempo of transportation. Clearly, humans survived and rebuilt from these global catastrophes, but in the absence of spiritual knowledge and higher guidance, humans kept repeating the familiar paradigms for physical and social realities. At the end of the popular television series "Battlestar Galactica", the survivors of the survivors of the descendants of the original Earth humans land on a new world. Some began to look at where they would start the new towns and cities and this repeat the fallen world existence they had been familiar with before their planetary colonies were destroyed. The wiser of them said no, let's not. Let's do this differently and keep it simple at first.

We can only speculate on what solar and galactic energies are that will influence rapid changes upon earth dwellers and what the impact would be. We encourage further discussion at the NES forums.

A New Vibrational Level of Existence?

What we might call our 3rd dimensional (3d) reality is being upshifted and along with it, our awareness. The next level up (4d) resembles familiar earth overall and is only a transitory stage. There is a higher vibratory state (5d) that still maintains some semblance of what is familiar, but with greater freedom along with greater connection to one another and to God/Creator. The levels beyond this are increasingly expansive and encompassing.

We are not the first “human race”, nor the last. Of the previous races on Earth, we are not the most advanced technologically, nor the most advanced in terms of consciousness, actually far from it. Those who are paying attention, know this.

My sense has been that “new earth” is not this one, but a higher vibrational version. As to how this “old” earth is to be restored and readied to be a “garden of creation” as it was intended to be, I can only speculate about. My “future forwards” suggest massive planetary cleansing and changes to planetary dynamics and the solar system with a new evolution of human living here and a much smaller global population than at present.

While there are those who would prefer a new way to live, rare few are really doing anything to make this happen. This is partly due to material circumstances that make it very difficult to effect a major change in ones life situation right now, and partly due to denial or disbelief over what is occurring. While there are those who are already more oriented toward 5th dimensional existence or beyond, there is the bulk of humanity working hard at maintaining the illusion of an existence that cannot be maintained –either consciously or unconsciously.

Relative to a continuity of humans on this Earth, working from a higher state of consciousness and maintaining physical life do not need to be mutually exclusive activities.

Ordinary physical reality, expansively imaged by space telescoping or imagined by human minds, is not all there is to existence. Such a notion is in itself dangerously limiting.

The evolution of humanity is not about some genetic or random circumstantial path leading to the present where a medieval-era human minds now tinkering with atomic technologies. And it is not about building spaceships to inflict a limited and distorted consciousness on other planets or stars.

It is about the larger processes of the evolution of creation and the development of potential creator beings and it is all about our larger soul being and higher self. It is about a major leap occurring at some point along the way –exactly what is arriving for us now.

“Making Things” –Ways of the New Creation

There are other ways to "make things" than by the violence of human technology –modern or primitive. Furthermore, it was never intended at the highest levels that physical existence in the 3d level would be a struggle of survival and one of material suffering.

–from “Making Things” –Ways of the New Creation section from “Ascension & Awakening” article in this issue

Some people subscribe to notions about “inevitability” of cycles repeating themselves, either at the level of human events or of larger cosmic cycles. Such stories only serve to reinforce a state of imprisonment and have been perpetuated by many non-religious spiritual circles as well as the major religions.

However, there are cosmic level “re-cycling” processes leading to the re-absorbing of energy for new creation work and there are also processes for evolving to new levels of existence beyond what has “come before”. This applies at all levels from souls to all of creation.

What if Nothing Major Happens?

We know there are many who want to believe that there will be no severe earth changes, no economic catastrophe, no massive food shortages, or no officialdom/citizenry run amuck. This perspective is found throughout the human matrix world, from the “living dead” of the “mainstream” to “imagine everything perfect” of the new age tendencies. In our social science research, around the year 2000, 70% of USA population felt that humanity was headed for serious disasters in the course of this decade, regardless of eventual outcome. Slightly more than half of the study participants also thought that a social and spiritual awakening would make the world a better place to live.

I anticipate most (not all) of the major changes we have described will occur and will be felt at the 3d level of physicality for those who remain heavily engaged at that level. The planetary changes not only help to shake people loose, it also disturbs the control systems, loosening their hold as well –energetically and socially. The degree of severity of these changes is unknown.

If some seers are getting the picture correctly, then for some humans, these changes to physicality will be more like surfing or swimming through the waters, rather than getting “hit” by them full force. The “long train” dreams I and a few others have had recently suggest that there is a sensible coherency to the changes and that human personality memories may be lost in the process of the vibrational “upshifting”.

From the perspective of our greater soul selves, our energy bodies will be made better, upgraded, and entire souls made new. But from the perspective of the human-self anticipating human or planetary catastrophic change, everything may not appear to be fine. Once the human personality self connects with its true self, the process will be easier to go through.

There are no ordinary human solutions to the growing crises, and the main human response is would range from opposition by social unrest to quiet withdrawal. Of those withdrawing, some will actively form new types of cooperative relationships to meet material needs, others will prefer to withdraw more into their inner world. There is also another higher response, one that is not compatible with maintaining the extant reality around us. This is the ascension and transformation process.

In the interim, there are those who are called to create new forms of community. A bridge from the old the new can be made. One side would be positive core values from the old such as “Connection, Service, and Spirituality”, and on the other side, the “new earth” values such as

‘Big Wave Surfers’

"Moral of the story is - don't fall off" ... "But if you do, try and stay as relaxed and comfortable as possible when the world seems to be turning around you."

-from an interview with surfers who travel to experience the biggest wave in the world - Oct.24, 2009; Lincoln City, Oregon USA

“Caring, Trust, Service within the larger Spiritual Connection”. Such guiding principles can be applied to an individual, family, and as well as large collections of people. Taken with the typology of “Connection, Service, and Spirituality” that was discovered in the IOOW-2000 research, these two sets of principles form a bridge from the old to the new and can be used to guide communities in transition.

Some may ask “why bother”? The “schedule” is not known and neither is the duration of present humans on this 3d earth. So the deliberate formation of awakened conscious community is one contribution we can make in the “as below” to the larger process. This would represent what remains from the present human settlement of earth that could be worth protecting.

There is the possibility that the entire process may take some years to catch up all who are alive on Earth. Thus, until one “gets the memo” as to personal timing, it is best to proceed with doing what one is most called to, and what would be most beneficial for all concerned.

There are those who are earnestly and fervently trying to explain to those who can hear them, the “whys and wherefors” of what is un-right about this human reality and the importance of struggling to find “solutions”. Yet none present a spiritual perspective and thus what they put forth can never find traction, except among those most angry or among those most naïve to think that “reform” is possible. Among nascent social revolutionaries there is a range of confused and angry thoughts that are hopelessly beyond untangling. We would suggest there is value in adopting an alternative perspective such as “caring with detachment”.

For those busily engaged with new ideas for food or electrical energy, they may well find their work to be of some use in the future, but as long as there is the existence of a global elite, potentially beneficial inventions will never see light of day to benefit humanity, unless they can be used to maintain the elite’s control. This is not loose speculation on my part. It is based upon centuries of well-documented history of the present day global powers that be.

With 6.5 billion people to control, the powers-that-be rely upon layers of high level minions numbering in the tens of thousands to do their bidding. They in turn rely on a network of hundreds of thousands to carry out directives. This network in turn relies upon a larger network of millions of highly influential people who are insinuated into all social, political, and economic structures. Then there is the enormous momentum of force of habit of billions of people who are in a state of enforced somnambulism “under the influence” of the darkness of a global elite. Supporting this process are the “Trojan viruses of the mind”, i.e., the social control memes that engage so many in unconsciously reinforcing a low state of consciousness among themselves and that represent germinal elements from which the “Dark” can resurrect itself, not unlike a hidden computer virus.

USA and the Fall of the Nations

While the cycles of karma are ending and there is to be an extraordinary redemption and absolution, there still is at present a massive accumulation of “negative” energies in the world. Since before the founding of the USA, an immense negative karma has been accumulating to the entirety of what constitutes the USA. While there has always been a tremendous potential in the USA as a model to the world for all that is good in humanity, too many “lines were crossed” from the day the first colonists landed on these shores and were not corrected when possible. Nevertheless, all the nations will fall, as there can be no more place for such things.

Purely for discussion sake, let us assume that no catastrophic changes occur. Thus the global powers-that-be will do what they will do to strengthen their control. People who do not like this will do what they will do, namely mount social revolts. Overall, the powers-that-be will use technologies, including EMF and other radiations, drugs, social control memes, consumer entertainments, and direct compulsion to maintain a compliant population and isolate potential troublemakers.

Some may say that sooner or later enough people will have had enough and will somehow overthrow the-powers-that-be –or quietly secede from their control system. This is not likely. Hundreds of millions died from recent century of wars that were directed by the powers-that-be. Hundreds of millions more were injured and displaced. Where once there was some hope that perhaps there would be enough people rejecting the old ways due to extreme contrasts, this has not occurred. The process of social “meme” engineering and control of information has been so profound that there is no way for humans to change the paradigm they have been enthralled to.

The possibility for humans to find themselves on the brink of catastrophic extinction and have enough mirrored to them of what is wrong, has long been considered to be a sufficient corrective feedback mechanism to help break the hypnosis of the “matrix world”. It is not. Instead it is become a basis for absolute power by the global elite over all of humanity, facilitated by control memes such as false oneness.

The powers-that-be will not give up their power and there can be no social or political process that they will not find a way to control.

Without the benefit of a major breakdown to the planetary and social environments, humanity would continue to be herded along by those in positions to do so, while continuing the illusions of a limited existence.

Purely for discussion sake, let us also assume that millions of the most “negative” humans are changed somehow, perhaps by coming into a changed consciousness as part of a “collective near-death-experience”. There would still remain the enormous problem of the organization of human and material resources and the reorganizing of billions of human relationships with one another and the planet. Then there would remain the ongoing problem of poisoned and in some areas inhospitable living environments. How are future generations to be born healthy and spiritually encouraged when the air, water, soils, and foods are so toxic? How many generations will it take and what of the implanted social control memes that infect billions of people? A transition period would be fraught with hardships, and after going through so much already seems to be quite an impossible situation.

The present version of the omni-present ‘matrix world’ must come to an end. There has been no failure on the part of humanity, given its circumstances. It is time for a new evolution of existence. Changes will come about from a combination of catastrophic changes to the

“Escape Velocity”

“...those who can move on in their spiritual growth and evolution must do so. If you choose this, there is nothing and no one to wait for, and one cannot look back.

To look back is to become frozen in place. The ripple effect of the forward movement will be of great service as it will free many more who will “take flight” and enter new states of spiritual awareness that can also inform ones day-to-day existence.

The multiplying effects of the awakening of some, then more, will have a powerful influence upon even more. It is what could be called approaching “escape velocity”. This is the awakening.

planetary environment and to the energetic or vibrational state of reality, stimulated by forces beyond most human imagination.

This does not require that all human life is ended, but it does mean that the power of the dark control is removed and the human meme-sphere be changed in favor of cooperation and equality and conscious connection to true self.

This does mean the profound alteration of the ego-personality and substantial changes in its memory matrix that the personality's existence is based upon. The present social-cultural-political-economic paradigm cannot and will not permit this and there are billions of people on this planet who would ensure it does not happen. Understandably, this is all they and their ancestors have ever known and they have no idea how to live any differently. Unfortunately, it is all being programmed into children now.

The possibility of a 5th dimensional upshift is in the making with the help of higher levels of cosmic intelligence. This process will likely soften or dissolve much of the ego-self personality as it occurs and provide a relatively clearer environment for humanity to discover its true nature and behave much differently. It is too early to say how much of the personality-self memories will be dissolved at this level. At even the initial 5d levels, so many possibilities for existence can be learned and appreciated. (The 4th dimensional range is only an interim “next level up”, not a vibrational “destination” to settle into.)

This is one scenario and seemingly the preferred course.

SOV Concluding Remarks

Humans are being presented with the opportunity of experiencing and knowing the true reality of its existence and the true reality of creation. This is a “first contact” experience that is far beyond human imagination and we are not talking about “ET’s” (that comes later). Part of the process requires us to let go of what our ego-self personality believes to be real, includes those piles of accumulated personal memories that we presume to define who or what we are. A larger transformational process is being facilitated at levels of intelligence that operate at higher vibrational levels than our mutual 3d reality. These levels of intelligences include our own higher selves or souls.

From many sources –scientific, predictive, old prophecies, dreams, visions and remote viewing –there are clues to something unfolding that is transformationally very significant: Each perspective has its own descriptors, but one thing that all have in common is “light energy”, however it may be described in spiritual or scientific terms. It brings about changes to ordinary reality and spiritual consciousness. Some may restrict their conceptualization of “transformational” to the challenges and difficulties to the material life of humans living on the planet. While the actual range of spiritual energy is beyond present day science to measure, there is some relationship between higher frequency radiations and the human body and consciousness.

This is only part of the story. The other part has to do with dimensional changes to consciousness and existence. Not just the material “stuff” of human civilization. This has to do with “dying to the old” and that includes dying to the notion of “death” itself as well as the limitations of the social conventions that this “life” of the ego-personality-self is “all there is”. As the transformational process unfolds further, it can be very disturbing and debilitating to some and elevating and exciting to others.

The state of the human world, in my assessment, is beyond repair and correction based upon the state of consciousness of humanity and its capacity to make the needed changes.

It is not difficult to imagine humans trying rebuild, to make a new “civilization” post-2013, perhaps even succeeding in many ways. But if most of the existing infrastructure and human population remains intact, then the question of who is in charge, how and what they do, who they are truly accountable to, and how the “system” is to change becomes a very big question. How many generations before there are no nations in competition with one another, no poverty, no super wealth, no more private concentration of capital and wealth, no more pollution, no more military, no more armaments, etc.? How is this to occur if life proceeds from its present course and without profoundly catastrophic change? And if such changes in population and infrastructure do occur, and humans do what they are most familiar with as they re-build their civilization, how will anything truly new and different emerge? How many generations until the new humans no longer have anything (except genetics) in common with their ancestors? And how much conflict and struggle will ensue in the interim? The history of human civilization following all the major catastrophes over thousands of years has resulted in the building of more aggrandized civilizations, social class conflicts, widespread suffering, and a notable lack of evolved spiritual consciousness. To what extent perhaps, would this humanity give rise to a new dark power on earth, even without “dark forces” in the higher realms?

A popular definition of “insanity” is to repeat the same thing over and over expecting somehow a different outcome each time. This is an apt description of the repetitious incarnations into the human realm billions of times in the recent epoch of the human-on-earth experiment. While it has been a very interesting experience to be able to peek out at creation at the 3d density level through eyes that are of 3d density material, the question remains at our higher levels: what is that was learned or gained from billions of incarnations to serve our higher evolution into creator beings?

Of course things were not nor were they ever so simple. Due to the unique circumstances and problems here, it was as if we were exploring areas that had no “phone reception” to our true selves and our surrogate selves got very lost, some “went native”, a few went into safe hiding, and others were taken in by the dark. It was “quite the scene”. Some of us are here to observe and some to help at this time of great changes in the “as above” and “as below”. This is also part of our own learning process. We are all much more than our human selves.

There are compelling reasons why, from our own higher levels, many may choose to withdraw from our human existence on Earth and recollect ourselves as greater soul beings and families of souls beings. As to those souls beings who choose to maintain their embodiments here in 3d, I can only speculate. There is one group who are considering the possibilities of seeing what could come of giving a final effort at evolving this version of human once the human and higher level dark powers-that-be are no longer in power post-2013. Trust, caring, and service in the greater context of connection to higher Source will be essential. Likewise, helping and learning from the young children who retain their spiritual consciousness and abilities. But the transition period will not be easy given the legacy of a poisoned planet, major changes to the planetary environment, and retained memories and social programming, are all major challenges. As I have written before, they will also have aid and assistance from the higher levels as much as possible.

Whether we will see in the near future the catastrophic destruction of this world and much human life, is not the main question that concerns me these days and I see no point in dwelling on this. To me, there is a good possibility that this 3d world will cease to be home to a large portion of the present human population. As of this writing, I do not know what the timing is for such events and I do not know anyone who knows this with certainty. There are various warnings and logical explanations, some of which are summarized in this material and at NES Forums.

What these all indicate to me is the urgent need to pay attention to our spiritual nature and connection of higher self and to the higher realms. “Spiritual inspiration” can guide us in our personal decisions. As well, there should be ample indicators to those who are more aware that something major is changing in the external environment. Even so, there will be those who will believe that “it can’t get much worse” and operate from that assumption as they prepare to “get through the changes”. These are all individual decisions.

Whether the changes to 3d reality are of planetary or extra-planetary origins, they are far beyond human ability to alter. As to the fundamental problems of human society, without connection to higher self and Source, humanity will remain lost and stuck in endless variations of dysfunctional paradigms. Thus the question becomes one of transcending these changes, transcending this reality, and the common perception of "life" –and welcoming an existence with the presence of one’s own true self.
