

Global Awakening News

Commentary and Guidance for Enlightened Change During Rapidly Changing Times

~ Special article reprint ~

June 2008

“State of the Vision”

by Alex Kochkin

These essays are presented for their value to anyone who cares about the future as humanity prepares to make the greatest shift in consciousness and existence ever. We cover a wide range of topics including social-values research, “future-views”, the world situation, and advanced spiritual perspectives.

“GLOBAL AWAKENING means individuals and communities becoming aware of and embracing their true nature – one of interconnectedness, service, and spirituality, as we express extraordinary dimensions of our larger being. “

State of the Vision

Special commentary from Alex Kochkin

Disclaimer: This is a composite of personal intuitive insights and analyses from various sources. The remarks reflect what coherence and concordance there is among these diverse sources. We take no responsibility for the accuracy of these remarks nor for any actions you may take in response to your reading this material.

Note: For those who are rely on the email digest form of this update, we urge that you go to the main download site for the full PDF of this that includes various graphics and captioning.

Lastly, if you have not read the October 2007, December 2007, and January 2008 issues, you may want to since this issue continues to develop and update what was previously introduced.

Preface

The possibility of a planetary transformation and ascension and the dramatic spiritual evolution of the human species into higher dimensional beings has been a profound dream of true Creation. Until recently, this possibility was rapidly waning. There is now an energetic up-shift occurring, simply represented by a common expression, “raising all boats”.

As long as humanity continues to define itself and identify with the control matrix and all that entails, there is very little that can be done to alter the course of events of earthchanges and upheavals in the social and economic and political systems under which most of humanity has seemingly been enslaved. These upheavals can be regarded as part of a larger pattern that is shaking people out of their slumber and loosening the hold on this planet by the global power elite. A positive net effect of this would result in more people making choices for a new way of being and acting upon these intentions. Conversely, there will be those who will naively engage in attempts to restore something of the old, simply because they do know any better.

Social-economic and earth environment changes are underway that are beyond the ability of humanity to apply old approaches to address the consequences. Before the end of this year, it will be plain to many people all over the world that there will be no return to what has passed as “normalcy” and that a new way of functioning is demanded by changing conditions. This new way of functioning will only be successful if new consciousness is engaged in its development.

A new situation is quickly developing that involves something more than what can be conjured up by humans. What is now is the result of the persistent efforts by true Source to alter the quality and population of the dimensional layers above human 3-d density. Earth and her passengers are experiencing a vibrational upshifting that will allow many more people to access a higher awareness than they have known.

So many who care so deeply are so overwhelmed by the growing suffering and tribulations of humanity. On the one hand this comes from a deep sense of caring that is based upon a deep sense of interconnection of all creation. There is in our global society an advocacy for “compassion”. But what is the nature of such “compassion”? Those who are global leaders present “compassion” in a context that ties everyone to everyone else’s fate and distorts it into pity by those who think they are suffering least for those who they think are suffering more. Such a distortion is easily accomplished by manipulating the positive quality of caring. The result can be an over identification with the plight of others and forgetting one’s own power as an evolving spiritual being. This can be like a type of “survivor’s guilt” and thus serves the powers that be in controlling people. This keys in closely with the question of attachments/detachment.

The question of a bifurcation in consensus reality has come to fore once again. In applying the as above/as below principle, there have been early reports and look-aheads that show new self-organizing collectives and communities of people forming, stimulated by compounding crises. If this represents the “as below”, then perhaps the “as above” counterpart would be the vibrational separation between those vibrating above and those vibrating below some relative threshold. From this we coined the term, “vibrationally differentiated” and discuss it more in context in the following article on ascension and transformation.

Such bifurcations have been noted recently by various intuitive/sensitive commentators. We do not find this unusual in the least as it would be consistent with the process of Creation engaging in a type of cellular mitosis in making new creations, new realities. So that the newly birthed creation can develop its uniqueness without influence from what preceded its creation, there is a certain detaching from the creation system that initially birthed it.

The question of attachment is coming up for many of us. As to personal relationships and all, it is an important challenge to see that we are each so much more than our personality projections of our higher self collective. Some relationships with families, animal companions, nature, etc., have a closeness at a soul or higher self collective level, others do not have that. Our personal attachments, whether they carry positive or negative associations will be important things to address. We do not own anyone, not our animal companions, not our children, not our parents, etc. Each is an equal creature of true Source, Creator, God.

How to be detached, yet caring. Detached yet loving. Detached, yet engaged with others. For some it is the attachment to being in a human existence or attachment to helping aid humanity at this time.

We will mostly know what we need to know sooner or later, especially those most focused on ascension and spiritual evolution. People are receiving clear guidance from their higher self matrix. This is important to ask for. Ask for this connection and this clear, unequivocal guidance from your higher self matrix. Ask that your personality self relax into the relationship and not impeded it unnecessarily. Consider this as evening prayer or personal induction each night. Ask to remember. It is your divine right.

For those of us who came here quite deliberately to aid in and observe the great changes here, we will not leave our personality selves “in the dark” or otherwise neglect them. We will inform them as soon as it is time. We all have a bit more to do here and there. For the personality to know too much too soon may mean we overlook or bypass something important that we really may need to attend to. There are also “plans” at the higher levels that must remain at those levels, out of the reach and access of the dark forces. Frustrating as this may be, it is a necessary security policy.

There are new energy conduits opening up all around the planet that are touching down at an individual level. They carry direct uplinks/downlinks from Source. There is something brewing that involves as many embodied humans as possible in these new connections to the higher levels. Ask to be connected. It is your divine right.

These concerns and others will be dealt with further in this issue of GA News.

Introduction to the “Spring-Summer” Issue of GA News

This long issue of GA News is the result of an accumulation of insights and quiet waiting and observing over recent months. There will be only one more issue published (August 2008) and it will focus on the big changes and encourage people to consider deeply their personal human and spiritual responses. There may be bulletins coming out from time to time if there is something major to comment on, otherwise, updates will be in the context of postings at New Earth Summit Forums (<http://www.newearthsummit.org/forum/>).

Updates and new commentary will continue to be posted at the NES Forums (link: <http://www.newearthsummit.org/>) and private correspondence maintained. We hope to eventually include some energy practices that can be of aid in your personal transformational process. Articles prepared over the past year will be separated out and listed separately at both the main PFCN website and the NES forum site for viewing and downloading.

This June and July we anticipate some powerful energies coming in that will seem to coincide with some major changes in the human and planetary environment. August there will be conflicts and crises and by October and November many people will have good cause to question a great deal about the true nature of society and of their own spirituality. By end of the year many more people will be giving serious thought to their nature of their ordinary lives and what they are to make of their future together.

As humans further get caught up in the events and dramas of society and earth, there will be a tendency to project the very worst or to maintain naïve denial (“things can only get better now”). Many in spiritual circles project a golden age soon, but they fail to explain how we get from one state of being to another.

For whatever it is worth, we are not anticipating one sudden collapse of everything and the end of world, rather we are anticipating major changes to the human and planetary environment that occur in stages or in a “ratcheting” up process. The first major phase would be from mid-2008 into 2010.

While there are some who are “heading for the hills” or their nearest survivalist shelter, there are those in some “spiritually” inclined circles who are projecting absurdly rosy scenarios for the coming near term in which they claim little to no worsening of the economic crisis, little to no serious political or military crises, and little to no major earth changes. There are even those who keep pushing the theme of massive amounts of “magic” money that will show up to save the world –or those who were lucky enough to be beneficiaries. In our view this is dishonest and manipulative of people’s naivete and is in league with the dishonest manipulations of the-powers-that-be (TPTB) who are presently cranking up a well-orchestrated public relations campaign to convince the USA public over the course of the coming spring-summer months that there is no cause for alarm, and that there is not going to be a serious economic crash. The leading elite and their mainstream media mouthpieces can be expected to lie like that. But as to these rosy scenarios coming from individuals who are purportedly channeling “higher level” intelligences, one must wonder if these are actually dark force entities engaging in their favorite deception of pretending to be the “good guys”.

Far too many people have fallen into renewing their involvement with the dominant control system (such as the USA national elections) simply because they can see no other possibility. Like Charlie Brown and Lucy and the perennial “football deception”, there are the falsehood adages of “lesser of two evils” or things can’t get much worse, only better”, etc.

Then there are those who prefer to overlook a terribly rough transition period and prefer to focus on a theme of “all will be well” and that we are about to enter a “golden age”. Under “normal” process of an social transformational process, in one or two generations a major change could become evident, but the “rosy glasses” perspective fails to recognize the severity of the infection of human thought processes and corresponding social-economic structures that dominate everyone’s lives. The use of “culture” by the global elite to project their power and social control is but one example of a very powerful way of infecting large populations. For anyone aware, the question would be how humanity is to effect such a radical change in behaviour after hundreds of generations of imbedded social programming from the dark control matrix.

Alternatively things can change very quickly – but until that is clearly in evidence, it is counterproductive to presume “everything will be suddenly all right”, as if no one needs to do anything more, or that no one needs to acknowledge what has gone wrong and what part they may have had in it. Otherwise a near total complete memory re-set and re-load would be required --then there is the problem of the artifacts from the past millennia, all of which carry the distortions and miscreant teachings on society and individuals. Of course a complete recycling of the planet and a re-seeding, re-planting of new humanity from ships and or protected colonies on earth would address this issue of the artifacts. But then we are not expecting that in the coming few years. So one problem being dealt with is how the bulk of present day humanity is to somehow reorganize itself internally and externally and evolve in a manner without “outside” interferences, but still retain the artifacts of present day and past day earth civilizations?

There is coming into view an alternate possibility. One that occurs against the backdrop of social and planetary destructuring referred to above. For lack of a better descriptor, we would compare this to something akin to a collective near death experience (NDE) that is profoundly transformational. In this scenario a vast altering of thought process occurs in which profound new choices are arrived at not through intellectual discourse or social conflict, but through a near instant recognition of what is best at an individual and eventually a collective level. To those in a relative ascended state (imagining an arbitrary threshold of qualitative change), it will seem as if there are two realities. Some of those in the higher state of consciousness and or “physical” vibration may maintain a certain connection with their former “earthlingness” - and some will disconnect more completely.

From a colleague:

“A well known western shaman felt he should do a healing meditation for the earth. Quickly after he entered into meditation, he saw a young and beautiful and very sad woman who said to him, “you have a very big problem.”

So he replied, “I was sending healing energy to you, as you have many problems to contend with.”

She replied, “Actually, I have no problems that I cannot deal with. But you humans have a very big problem, and you should be sending energy to others so that they may start working with the problem.”

Humanity is to be woken up to the nature of existence and humanity's place in Creation.

Some may think it is simply about freewill and choices. But individuals who are asleep and who have their awareness suppressed are incapable of making freewill choices. However we are fortunate there is a partial “backup system” by which aspects of higher self step in and express what may be needed for our highest good. There will be abrupt shocks to a great many people, and most concentrated in those areas of human activity that are based upon falsehoods and with which people most identify with. The wake-up call is from the true Creator and our higher aspects. It will be compassionate and unmistakable. We wrote earlier about truth versus falsehoods. As this time of awakening comes to everyone, there will be an increase in falsehoods masquerading as truth. The question will be how to discern between the two. Those who are paying attention and connecting through their higher self will know one from the other. Those who rely upon external sources to tell them what is what, will find confusion until they find their way. It is the intent of Creator to touch each person on this planet.

This expanded issue of GA News addresses further insights into the larger patterns of spiritual transformation and offers an overview of the nature of the difficulties faced by humanity from the ongoing manipulation of social memes on the part of the “control matrix”. Delving into these falsehoods was challenging in many respects. It did provide important insight into the extensive range of social engineering and meme engineering from ancient times to present day –and the depths to which it has penetrated into people's thoughts and behaviours and basic assumptions. For some it is important to understand better the distortions and illusions and falsehoods that are now ingrained into the bulk of society at all levels, this especially applies to those who are in positions of leadership or teachers.

Overall the problem is so severe that it can only be addressed thoroughly at a high level of true Creation. As more of humanity comes into “the light” of dramatic changes in consciousness and vibration, these problems from the dark control matrix will be recognized and set aside as no longer relevant of consideration except as a possible source of “loving amazement” that things got so out of hand.

The article in this issue titled Meme Control and Interferences with Humanity presents a far-ranging overview on this matter along with a companion piece on the Origins of Time and Our Cosmos.

The material in this issue is a distillation of an enormous amount of both scholarly and contemplative research. Whether the background details to this material are published remains to be determined. While many good researchers helped to uncover various aspects of the nature and origins of the dark and the flaw in the process of creation, we found no one connected all the dots on earth and the “invisible realms”. All generally had too many details mixed up with errant leads and insights. What was important was to trace the subtle yet terrible influences of social engineering/meme engineering over a period of recent decades since the atomic bomb, the period of recent centuries, and recent millennia and to determine the extent of non-human interference. Overall, the implications of all this to the future humanity are very important.

During a recent conversation, someone recently observed that humanity was not intended to keep on “adapting” to the control matrix and endless difficulties, rather humanity was intended to evolve as spiritual beings. In contemporary society “adapting” to challenges is one facet of the control meme with too many people subscribing to the notion that “whatever the difficulties, humanity will adapt” –a tone of resignation to circumstances.

Summary

Humanity is now entering a period of great change and crisis. On the surface there will be those decrying each of these crises as if they were islands of bad judgment and unfortunate circumstances. I would like to say now that it is not a food crisis; rather it is a spiritual crisis of existence. It is not an economic crisis, but a crisis of an inability and unwillingness of the old paradigm to support exchanges of energy and intent that serve our true nature. It is not an impending power grid crisis, rather it is a reflection of the inability of old paradigm energies to connect with our new selves.

At some point of switching from one system to a new one, there is a period of “interruption of service”. If the new system connections are available in a “new world”, then that is where we must go. Imagine receiving a notice in mail announcing a period of interruption of “vital services” first one then another, then more all at once. To make matters more challenging you find that in order to receive new and upgraded services you will need to relocate and develop a whole new mode of using these new “services”! Some may cry “unfair!” but as far as humanity is concerned, there have been more than ample opportunities to develop new transitional processes so that this radical switchover can be made more gently. As it was, choices that could have led to a less rocky transition were not made by those leading individuals who were among the most aware.

Thus a new way had to be found in which humanity would be stimulated and pressed on in ways that demonstrate how there were no viable options remaining with the old reality and old ways. Not only would the old external patterns of society need to breakdown sufficiently, but so would the internal patterns of thought, beliefs, and behaviors. Otherwise there would be very little capacity for the creation of a new society based on a new paradigm.

All of these “problems” can be recognized as birth pains that combine internal pressures to emerge into our true destiny as spiritual beings while the “contractions” of the Earth will provide additional impetus.

Today there are many ponderables for those “on the path” to grapple with relative to humanity and the question of involvements. One concern is how to engage in service in the external, yet not stay enmeshed in the dark control matrix. This is discussed in this issue in the article As Below -- As Above. At some point it becomes a matter of exercising discernment and detachment while engaging in service (assuming that is relevant to ones situation). This is an important consideration to those who are called to service at this time or who likely to be in the very near future.

The major mechanisms of control --economy, politics, religion, etc. all are breaking up and so their hold on people will weaken. But this will not occur overnight. Especially since there is a very large human population that has absorbed so much social programming by the dark. The 3-d world is entering a period of great turmoil. What is presently going on is merely a start to a process that will continue to unfold through 2010-2011. We anticipate very little relief in the 3-d old paradigm world, more likely there will be ongoing calumny and calamity. I look at this as an exercise in contrasts. How much contrast will people need in their lives before more shake themselves just a little bit awake and consider what is truly important to them as spiritual beings and then act upon new impulses.

If you can foster awakened community --either home-based or land-based --that is where to be; encouraging trust, caring, and service within a larger context of spiritual awakening. This is a good way to support one another and as situations arise, to be of service to others and thus ease the transition process.

What is a Community To Do?

The question for more people in the “developed” world these days is one of anticipating scarcity and all that may bring to mind. There are any number of quite likely scenarios and at some point there is a level of fear that needs to be addressed. In considering community, there are the notions of trust, caring, service, and the “big picture” of spiritual awakening. Where can trust be strengthened and what will that mean? How can people care for one another in their community and care for their environment? How can people be of service? How does this all relate to the “big picture” of purpose to ones existence? Is it to see another day? Is it to procreate genes? Is it to achieve something within the realm of humankind? Is it to awaken to true nature as spiritual beings and all that may imply? While considering these notions, there is the backdrop of daily life of society and these days, the near terms future is most likely to a very bumpy ride.

- What if you anticipated a global scale economic depression in the very near future and a deepening crisis onward through 2010?
- What if you anticipated radical climate and geo-physical changes shifts this year onward?
- What if you anticipated a major breakdown in the electric power grid?
- What if you anticipated a major disruption and breakdown on national and global delivery and distribution system? Think of fuel, food, consumables, spare parts, etc.

So what's a community to do? What is your response?

Compassion

At what vibrational level does your compassion operate from?

To many, compassion is limited only to the concerns of humans* and is something that is projected by those who think they are relatively better-off, toward those who are experiencing material or physical suffering. Yet so many of those who may not be materially suffering, may well be suffering themselves at a far deeper level --that of their very existence as spiritual beings. (* Taking this a leap further, until recently there has been a question as to the extent of compassion experienced or felt by Creator for suffering at the more highly differentiated levels of awareness and existence.)

When compassion is limited to the human sphere of limited awareness, it can in effect chain everyone to the “deck of the Titanic” so that everyone has to “go down with the ship” together. Some years ago we formulated a concept called “discernment with compassion” - that placed discernment first. This was intended as a transitional vibration and transitional perspective to help people ease themselves into a higher state. In this new context, compassion would mean awareness of connection or interconnectedness but the discernment aspect facilitated a dynamic that would activate dormant or damaged free-will.

One can have great feelings of compassion for people, one can hold great compassion for the situation of the entire planet inclusive of humans, one can have great compassion for the situation at the higher levels of self and the highest levels of Creation. It is all a matter of scope of the frame of reference, the more encompassing ones awareness, the more one can appreciate the greater picture and the individual parts of the whole. Therefore, rather than a distancing and separateness, what happens is a greater sense of love, of responsibility, of compassion at a higher level of awareness.

At some point attachment/detachment comes to the fore, especially given the various patterns of energy and memes that are circulating. At some point non-attachment may mean letting go of ordinary physical life in favor of a new life in a new state of being. For some non-attachment may be one of surrender of the personality worries to higher self –a merging into higher self. It is hoped and expected that for many the process will be one they can consciously witness and participate in.

When compassion is based on awareness of the interconnectedness of life and one acts out of love and caring, then compassion can be part of the transition to higher dimensional awareness. When compassion operates from a low vibrational level of pity or self interest (“there for the grace of God, go I”) or when it is used to keep everyone chained to the matrix world, then compassion is not of any positive value or worse.

Changes in Our Existence

There is a bifurcation or vibrational differentiation occurring –along the lines of consciousness and the energetic structures of reality. On the one hand there is a “downward spiral” involving of those enmeshed in the matrix world, including even those who are so righteously motivated to serve by opposing what is seen to be “un-right”. On the other hand there is an “ascending spiral” of those most capable of welcoming connection to true Oneness, Original Source, etc. Each major bifurcation branch has its own bifurcations or variations. At this time these two dynamics are not mutual exclusive, they are not fully separate dynamics. This is important since so many are in a state of fluctuation or oscillation between them.

The transformation process is like a drop of water returning to the ocean. At first it is met with trepidation – will the small one be annihilated by the greater? Or will it be to the greater benefit of both – the small one gaining more of its true nature while retaining its unique awareness. So at first the bolder small droplets begin to touch the ocean, ever so delicately at first. And thus the first exchanges take place, not unlike the concept of “first contact”. Only in this case it is more a dramatic re-union with more of our very own selves.

What will be key to how we handle these changes will be how we handle attachments to what is familiar and comfortable as well as what is not so comfortable or familiar.

The various bands of the higher realms vibrationally closest to 3-d existence are being cleared of the dark energies, closer and closer to the realms of what we know as 3-d existence. But there are those dark forces in these higher realms who resist the clearing process and opt to descend further, closer in vibration to the human 3-d realm. Since these dark entities have not given up their hopeless agenda, they can be anticipated to cause as much trouble as possible, that is until they are removed and humanity moves to a higher vibrational state.

Changes to Planetary and Space Environment

Concerning future viewing of the human-earth environment, unless there is an urgent update, we have little more to say beyond what is in this issue and the January 2008 issue. We leave it to the aware person to simply pay attention. There are now many sources, both intuitive and materialist-objectivist that are making similar forecasts, all indicating serious crises compounding crises with some pockets relatively spared the worst while some seemingly not. Here is a summary of a few noteworthy recent events.

First we wish to emphasize, these are not prognostications of total destruction and mayhem. These represent significant “ratcheting up” of changes in our physical environment that somehow correlate with changes in the energetic structures. The level of disastrous effects is partly related to the serious need for the planet to adjust energetically and physically and partly related to the level of consciousness of humanity and the choices made during this period of necessary destructuring of the human social environment and collective and individual consciousness.

That all said, it is anticipated that there will be far reaching effects on human society worldwide from these changes, but they will be in stages, not all in one immense plunge. It is essential that more of humanity let go of the old patterning and become open to new ways just as it is essential that more of the global elite controllers lose much of their power and influence.

The economy will not and cannot be restored and is likely headed down through 2010 with both gradual and sudden changes. Before the end of 2008, the USA and its population will find itself seriously impoverished relative to its previous self-image and status in the world.

Severe rain and windstorms with flooding, snowmelts, dams breaking, etc. will affect wide areas in USA as well as other countries. So far this year, USA has had an extraordinary number of serious tornadoes. A massive cyclone caused oceanic waves and swell as well as devastating winds killing over 100,000 people and leaving over 1,000,000 homeless in the Myanmar area. Within days and within a curious geographical proximity, a major earthquake in southwest China resulted in over 100,000 people missing or dead, hundreds of thousands injured, and destroying homes and towns for many millions. These two events were roughly antipodal to the Chilean volcanic eruptions occurring in the same time period. Many areas of North America are already being affected by flooding as well as drought. A large portion of California is anticipating the worst drought in 150 years. Some areas of N. America and elsewhere in the world are likely to experience catastrophic heat. Other areas will be facing ongoing flooding problems. Further rainfall will be causing a growing crisis situation in many areas. This (water and flooding theme) may find further amplification near coastal areas during late 2008 and into early 2009. The cause of these effects may be complex, including a combination of submarine land deformations, dramatic shifts in ice sheets, and other geophysical changes affecting coastal lands. Following a moderately strong earth quake in Illinois, an area in Ohio has been experiencing ongoing flooding from upwelling of ground water. Strange sinkholes are forming in various states. It is anticipated that some areas in the world will be severely affected by a most extreme and devastating heat. Mold, fungi, bacteria, damaged sewage lines, evolving viruses and mounting emotional stress all contribute to uncounted illnesses and deaths.

Volcanics and other terrestrial and non-terrestrial factors will alter our planets atmosphere.

Submarine lands will be disturbed to such an extent that coastal areas around the world will be adversely affected by water inundations starting middle to late 2008 and into 2009 and on. From all this, plus economic factors, a large number of people will be relocating for any combination of physical or social environmental factors. Planetary, economic, and space energy disturbances will likely impact the stability of utility power grids. It is noted that this Spring there has been an unusual number of major gamma ray bursts (GRB), some of which could be seen as visible light by observers knowing where to look. Officialdom has been timidly raising concerns for major earthquake potentials along the west coast and eastern zones, including the new Madrid fault zone and related rifts. Whatever combination of events occur, these all point to permanent changes throughout all facets of society – USA and elsewhere. These will feed into political and social crises as people and ruling elites react, not just in USA, but elsewhere. Countries will experience internal compartmentalizing into sub-units such as provinces, districts, counties, etc.

The question of a pole shift has been raised recently and we would be remiss not to touch on this topic. What has been observed has been a change -- occurring in small stages -- to the relationship of surface geography to what would be considered the northern and southern points of the earth's spin axis. There have also been hints of a shift in the tilt of the earth. Whether one or both of these conditions are true, the net effect would be that portions of the northern areas of Russia (around Franz Josef Land) would be slightly closer to the Earth's north pole and areas (such as Montana) would be a slightly closer to the equator. When, if at all, these would occur is not possible to say. Initially these changes would likely be in very small fractions of degrees. Such changes would be likely related to some rebalancing of the earth's physical mass relative to both planetary and space environment changes. As to magnetic poles shifts, these are very likely as the magnetic field is subject to space radiations and thus bears watching as well.

Unless unequivocally guided by higher self, non-engagement is advised and to stay focused on expanding your own connections to higher self and true Source. For those who are coming into direct connection with their higher self matrix, the question of involvement will be clear and apparent. If you must engage in the outer world do so out of pure love and an unattached caring and best to focus on your immediate local community.

Updates for anything of considerable significance will be posted at the NES forums under sections titled: World and National; Planetary and Space Environment; Spirituality and Transformation; etc. We invite readers to register and post: <http://newearthsummit.org/forum>

False Imprinting and Meme Engineering

This issue of GA News presents an overview, based on extensive research and intuitive insights, into the less obvious forms of social control: the very groups and tendencies that most appear to promote “alternatives” for a positive future and promote spiritual values. In addition are noted patterns of content that continue to introduce fear and confusion mainly through the Internet. In recent decades, there has been a sophisticated move to find ways of controlling people's beliefs and behaviors – both through content psy-ops and through electronically controlled energy fields. This goes way beyond the scope of agitation-propaganda, as it was called in the “old days”, for meme and social manipulation.

“Oneness” has become a handy term these days. It is widely and abstractly promoted as love, forgiveness, and embracing everyone and everything without discernment. Such an approach is consistent with “false creation” imprinting of everything under its domain with the false teaching of an abstract or absolute sounding “freedom” extolling the individual. Advocates usually extended these concepts to apply to the human species as well, always in a context that omits connection to true Source and full consciousness. As we have discussed before, this would be considered humanity’s ultimate hubris if ever fully implemented. H.G. Wells’ 1936 movie “Shape of Things to Come” informs the viewer at the conclusion that it is for humanity to keep focused and working on the material world for the purpose of conquering the universe –for that is its true purpose and destiny. “Attraction” is also a term that is “in vogue”. As we noted earlier, as the process of awakening comes to each of our doors, there will be an increase in falsehoods masquerading as truth and using similar languaging. (As an interesting aside, Wells was personally very much aware of influential inner circles of power and influence – the true “hidden hand” as Adam Smith expressed in referred to the working of capitalism. (Recently we discovered a particularly dark and energetically toxic sect has decided to co-opt both the “oneness” and “global awakening” and marketing identifiers while promoting their “blessings” among naïve followers.)

Our research has taken us into the sketchy ancient records of many thousands of years ago, looking for consistent patterns – the footprints and fingerprints of those “others” – as well as the most recent decades. This relates to, yet goes far beyond family lineages. Given the current situation, we would say that genetic markers were of some early importance as a type of subtle energy tracking marker.

Ascension and Transformation

Remember the story about the frog in the pot of water which is slowly heated up? Well that is humanity. The pot is heating up and too much of humanity still thinks it is okay to stay in its old pot. Even those who are more spiritually oriented. Too many get too caught up in the dramas and righteous causes and issues. These are all at a stages that are too big for humanity to tackle, given its present state of limited consciousness.

A transformational process is in play that is designed to clear the energy matrices that govern individual and collective existence. However the distortions in the human personality and collective consciousness place too many limits on the initial process. Hence a “plan-b” is in process to move things along. This “plan-b” involves both the ratcheting up of changes to the planetary and social environment as well as altering the composition of the vibrational layers most directly above human 3-d.

Some are welcoming or encouraging the big earth changes and the big human social-political changes. Why? For some it is due to some false doctrinal teachings – usually religious – for others it is a way to “get it over with” and not prolong ever-worsening troubles on earth among humans. There are many fine gradations in between, but the point we wish to make here is that this is mostly out of our hands. Yes, there are those who will continue to pray that there be no more natural or human disasters and there will be those will welcome them for various reasons. However, this too is not in our hands, it is in the hands of True Creator and humanity’s influence is primarily related to choices and freewill.

This makes it hard for those who are somewhere in no-man’s land – not in the matrix world and not in an ascended state of awareness. As the matrix system breaks down further, more people will “get the message” and many will be open to new ideas and new ways. At that point they will seek cooperative and spiritual alternatives to the old ways. Otherwise, the natural tendency toward “survivalism” or restoration of the old patterns will dominate.

The closer you are to the “ascension event horizon” there may be little one can “do” except to offer support to those who may be aware of the process.

There is no set date or calendar time period for this process that is already underway. Meanwhile, there will be those setting up new types of ad hoc communities or collectives. These will mostly be oriented toward material well being in face of material adversity. A few will be higher vibrational communities of people and there will naturally be higher vibrational sub-sets of people within larger communities.

As Above, As Below

Contrary to many views of mass destruction, chaos, and hysteria, we wish to emphasize again that while there are some major changes to anticipate in the next few years, these are most likely to be in stages that will permit some brief period for people to adjust somewhat to changing circumstances. Of course for evacuees from damaged coastal areas or storm scoured locales, these would represent very major changes.

Many of these coming changes are closely related to the interaction and intervention of the “white light” that is coming down from The Creator of All.

We will be experiencing growing disasters in terms of effect and number. There will also likely be outbreaks of civil unrest in the population. But not as great as some worst case scenarios and their advocates have predicted. When the period of the greatest changes are over, it will all probably be looked at differently, we will have a different take on as if the memory of the events will be modified to allow a smoother transition. This will eventually reach back into time and all of the disasters and problems will be smoothed out so that we can move forward without the darkness of the past. This is expected to be systemic to the world as well as with the individual both in this life and in all lifetimes past.

There are various levels of frequency bands, or layers, that are above what is regarded as “3-d density”. As the higher levels are being cleared of various dark forces, some of those beings are descending closer to the 3-d reality of humans. This leads to an increase of beings that are not “of the light” at the level of human reality. In effect they “took a deep breath” and descended further to continue their agendas in realms that coincide more with that which most of humanity operates in. It appears that they are coming down from the higher levels to avoid or postpone the change that is happening. Because of their presence here, there is more “mischief” happening to individuals and dark beings attempt to find ways to avoid the changes. They are prevented from fleeing this sector and they can only run down into density so far. They have reached the end as far as running goes and they may be causing problems because they are cornered and feel threatened. Taking their anger and fear out on the embodied because it is the only power that they have left. Thus they have a more direct influence on human affairs and the lower layers become harder to clear. In the short term this can mean greater turmoil and instigation of international conflicts.

In watching the white light coming down the levels, at first it seemed that it would take about three years before the white light of “The Creator of All” reached 3-d density level. Now it is looking more like its effects will be noticed to intensify this July and on into fall. In response to these energies, greater changes to all facets of physicality will be more in evidence. In the third energy level “zone” above us, the light has already moved through and it has settled in to the form it is to have from now on. In the second level above us, the upheavals have stopped and there is white light everywhere. In the level or zone immediately above us, it is in the upheaval stage of the entry of the white light. Major changes are taking place and it will be in transition for a few weeks to a few months.

Concerning this level of 3-d density, the light is just beginning its full entry and should be here in force during June-July with major upheavals in the “as above and as below” realms lasting into the fall when the vibrational transitions will really begin.

The Future

The future of humanity does not lie with false political processes and false leaders and false memes but rather with each person connecting through their higher-self to the True Source/True Creation. As we do this, we need to focus on local community, local self-sufficiency, and local control. This is one way of practically bridging our “as above” realms with the “as below” realms of physicality.

A massive clearing and restructuring is going on at higher and higher levels of creation. There are a number of processes underway. One pertains to clearing the realms immediately above what would be regarded as 3-d consensus reality. This makes it easier for the higher realms to be in more direct connection with those of humanity who are ready to experience more of an upshifting and in turn helps prepare more for such changes to their awareness and physicality. Another process involves the internal pressures of human society, and then there is the pressures of the earth itself exerting contractions to move the “birth process” along. Along with everything else, the overall environment of the solar system and galaxies we are a part of is changing as well.

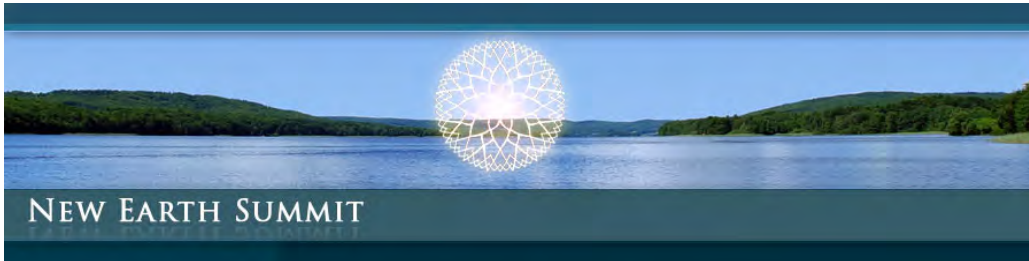

Humanity on earth may seem to be running a bit “behind schedule”, but the problems here have been somewhat of a tough nut to crack – like a black walnut – very tough.

There is much change on the horizon in terms of our consciousness, planet, and the nature of what we regard as reality. The sooner to let go of the illusions put before us by those seeking to parasitize off of humanity, the sooner we can get on with creating a new way of being, one that is in connection to our true Source, the original Source of all Creation. Connection with higher self and consummate detachment are key.

~ ~ ~

Public Online Forum

Bringing Together Awakened Community

Home page: <http://www.newearthsummit.org>

Main forum page: <http://www.newearthsummit.org/forum/>

A forum that is free of advertisements and includes various thematic boards including:

- Special Articles to Consider
- Awakened Conscious Community
- Health and Harmony
- Predictions of Future Events
- General Discussion
- Books, videos, and music - Member reviews
- Spirituality, Transformation, and Ascension
- Dreams and Visions and Future Viewing
- World and National Events
- Changes in Planetary and Space Environments
- Sites of Special Interest – Weblinks

Contributors can submit material to posting. At present we have limited new posts and have been mainly tracking significant news and information about the changing human and planetary environment. Anyone can read what is posted. Submit material for posting by e-mail to: newearth@newearthsummit.org .

~ ~ ~

Global Awakening News

Published online at <http://www.pfcn.net/napsun-bul1.html> and available via e-mail service to opt-in subscribers.

The Global Interchange, Positive Future Consulting, Fund For Global Awakening, and Global Awakening Press are not now nor have ever been affiliated with any religious, political, or economic tendency; and most certainly are not aligned with any guru's, groups, or channeled entities.

To contact us by E-mail: info@pfcn.net; to contact us by postal mail: PO Box 969; Stevensville, MT 59870 USA