

March 30, 2008

EDITORIAL:

The USA Elections, False Imprinting and Meme Engineering

By Alex Kochkin

*Falsehood versus Truth;
Connection to False Creation versus Connection to True Creation.
This is what is at the essence of what is on the table for humanity today and the stakes are the very highest.*

Preface

"Oneness" has become a handy term these days. It is widely and abstractly promoted as love, forgiveness, and embracing everyone and everything without discernment. This approach is consistent with "false creation" imprinting of everything under its domain with the false teaching of "freedom" that extols the individual (and collectively the human species), yet always in a context that omits connection to true Source.

Furthermore, this false "oneness" is a high-level "meta-meme", a creature of the dark forces, and is promoted under various similarly engineered tendencies including, "new age", "new thought", "integral culture", and yes "global warming", etc. This false "oneness" is promoted by the falsehoods of the "new age/new thought/integralist" tendencies that were originally created to serve both as a new mask for TPTB and as a means of ensuring smooth social order under their dominion. These tendencies are very much like the proven mass market consumer product companies, churning out endless products and brands, all purporting to offer the secret to ultimate success and happiness. All pander to the banalities of the individual self in separation from true or original Source.

True Oneness with Original Creation is a high level resonance and attractor through which genuine healing and spiritual evolution can take place. It is also the avenue for a true global awakening. That is why we are here after all, to know the difference, help undo the dark force influences, and not to become energy fodder for the dark forces. A tall order to be sure!

False Oneness emphasizes self-centeredness. Everything to give the personal I/me ego personality false freedom and control –all in the context of maintaining separate from True Source. Built in to this meme there is the collective self-centeredness of the superiority of humanity and within this various levels of the family unit, race, gender, religions, all tools used to keep humanity misdirected and manipulated. The powers-that-be have patiently been working this in stages, always toward the goal of engineering a more compliant “inmate” population that would gladly manage its own imprisonment – such has been their long term social engineering strategy. Much more can be said in more depth, and will be in the February-April “Spring” issue of Global Awakening News still in preparation.

USA Election Surprise?

For many months, I have been expecting there to be a “surprise” waiting in the wings – a surprise to those people breathlessly following the mass mind control operation known as the USA national presidential elections. Rigging votes involves much more than backdoors to memory cards. It involves encouraging and discouraging various population types. It involves massive meme engineering by the always complaint mainstream media. It involves turning half the USA into a massive “focus group” for TPTB. For those reading this who for some reason are amazed that with all the exposures of lies and corruptions via the world wide web there isn’t greater awareness, please stop and think about this. Just as it is with the mainstream media, only a small portion of the population has any capacity to “read between the lines”. The WWW may technically reach a large fraction of the total population, but of that fraction, a small fraction relies on the WWW for news and information. Of that fraction, only a small fraction is aware of and reads “alternative news” sources and commentaries. Of that remaining small fraction, only a rarified group actually seeks truthful alternative news, the rest gobble up the false “alternative news” just like those who religiously worship at the alter of National Public Radio.

Overall TPTB plan for USA elections was to gauge the proclivities of the general populace by openly testing in mainstream society various “hot buttons” that could be used to manipulate an already conditioned populace. Statistical research would be used to map the likely value parameters, but then real actors would be needed to fulfill the roles needed. Enter the parade and charade of candidates.

Eventually McCain was set-up as a disturbingly odious candidate who could make a “respectable showing” and appeal to various distorted tendencies within the population. Why so disturbing? Because if enough of the populace would show their support for someone like him, then it signaled another “green light” for the real NWO plans.

Yes, the major candidates are mostly NOT clued in to the real plans of TPTB. All are manipulated themselves by various “carrots and sticks” and only near the end is the real “nod” given by TPTB to the real one who is to make the cut. (After all they still have to make a convincing show of it all.) So now McCain has the public nod from the Bush White House, Rothchild, and various members of TPTB. He is the closest to a real live “Manchurian Candidate” –yes, of course all the major candidates are in one way or another, otherwise their countenances and banalities would not be plastered in front of everyone ad nauseum for months on end at a cost of hundreds of millions of dollars.

Obama is tied in the major globalists who are focused on the bigger picture and have found that overly focusing on Iraq is a tactical impediment at this time. Clinton has of course supported the war and is available to whatever factions hold her leash, and overall deemed not reliable enough. (However, as a female she still has some value with the manipulation of the naïve “women’s vote” and so is kept in the picture as long as possible.)

For various reasons and regardless of official election announcements, I expect that Clinton will not truly succeed to be president and that Obama is not to get the nod either. Unless it is to be set up to suddenly removed so that an appointee could be installed, something that would signal a deeper failure and last ditch efforts to save the falsehood that is labeled democracy in the USA. Not likely as of this writing.

Also, there was at one point the possibility than Bloomberg could have been promoted as an economic recovery candidate as an "Independent" - or as Republican and McCain would be pushed out of center ring this summer.

Remember the national votes are rigged, so do not even bother wasting your time.

The Election as National Psy-Op

If I were to stage an elaborate psy-op marking the start of a new era in global control, and if I already knew how little remains of any "critical thought" capacity in the heavily mind-controlled USA population, then I would first make a total shambles of the election process with a circus of truly odious candidates. This is already well underway. Just to make sure there would be little chance of serious open rebellion to the control matrix, I would make sure that there would be another candidate –someone more an insider who would have been kept away from mainstream politics and who could be positioned by the image-makers as the “last great hope” for USA and humanity. Such a person would appear purely in contrast by virtue of the image makers to be “different”.

Lastly, just to make certain I knew how well I could manipulate the voting public, I would also encourage someone like a Ron Paul to run specifically to test the potential of any "spontaneous rebellion" potential from portions of the population. Just a precaution in case I may have overlooked something. Then, satisfied that all was well, I would begin the next stage of a “falsehood of falsehoods” campaign that has been planned for many decades --the true launch of the NWO, and start pulling out all the stops that have been carefully prepared for generations.

The world social-economic backdrop would include various planned -- and unplanned -- crises that would get people even more discouraged that there was no hope... and then show them “hope”. Enter Al Gore, the blue-blood son of the TPTB, early pioneer in rigged elections, and false guru of global warming. After the threat of nuclear bombs, it was the threat of global climate change/eco-collapse that was identified by TPTB as the most reasonable mainstream strategy to use in moving closer to total global control –and with the willingness of those they need to control. Of course along the way they might have to blow up some big office buildings, kill a lot of people in USA and Middle East, and turn part of the middle east into in a global battle-station, maybe stage another Gulf of Tonkin incident, and complete the picture with heavy radioactive fallout from depleted uranium and possible more.

The Future

The future of humanity does not lie with false political processes and false leaders but rather with each person connecting through their higher-self to the True Source/True

Creation. As we do this, we need to focus on local community, local self-sufficiency, and local control. There is much change on the horizon in terms of our consciousness, planet, and the nature of reality itself. The sooner to let go of the illusions put before us by those seeking to parasitize off of us, the sooner we can get on with creating a new way of being, one that is in connection to our true Source, the original Source of all Creation.

-Alex

P.S.

I have been involved in campaigns in one way or another since George McGovern and paid close attention before that Eisenhower, Lodge, Kennedy Nixon, and on... yes, my memory is longer than most people's. I was heavily involved in the debates and analysis concerning whether George McGovern deserved the electoral support from the U.S. peace/left movements. Later I was professionally involved with various local, state, and national campaigns.

Also, for those wondering, I do not now, nor I have I ever been affiliated with any religion, guru, teachers, or related doctrines.

~ ~ ~

Link to this article:

<http://www.pfcn.net/Bulletins/USAElection.pdf>