“The All of Creation is calling all of Itself in to complete its own greater purposes. This vastness is ‘home’, and each miniscule part of Itself has a home within this vast home.”

“We are developing our self-identification as spiritual beings and not as human beings. Our greater spiritual selves are completing their learning of lower levels of density. Where there is a mutuality of spiritual evolution, our greater totality moves further into its evolution as creator beings.”

“Please remember, being humanly embodied or not, being confused about ones true nature or not, does not affect or define the true reality of ones true nature.”

...So many will want "one more chance" and each will ask in their own way "please God, one more chance, one more (fill in the blank)... "

This is quite understandable – there are those who still have no idea and automatically seek a new version of the falsehoods to replace the addictions and falsehoods they were forced into – and there are those who, from their ordinary human self, will naturally feel as though it is like a type of imminent annihilation.

And to the ordinary human level of awareness it will feel like a type of annihilation.

What form this takes, how exactly it is experienced, I cannot say; only that it will be initially unique in many ways for each, even if the interim transition space they arrive at is a shared one based upon consciousness and vibrational state.

At this stage, many of those who are more spiritually aware are looking for some version of liberation from an increasingly hellish existence. Yet there is still that little hint of questioning doubt that asks: “is this ‘it’, really? ...is ‘it’ really over?”

And so it follows, as it is interpreted/filtered from the human level of those with enhanced awareness there is also a concern over the “annihilation” factor. There is the natural sense of survival continuity of what is presumed as physicality and natural “home” for their human consciousness.

And so, there is the tendency to oscillate a little while longer between higher spiritual evolution and maintenance of the human familiars.

This manifests as a new “fix” of some sort, a new revolution, a new leader, a new “-ism” or (fill in the blank)... And this too is quite understandable.

But eventually, the oscillations become a smooth vibration that is in tempo with the Higher Oneness and the new energies from Higher Oneness. The vacillating between hope and despair ceases. And then, something amazing...

Those who are arriving to this space also know that this is the most important service they could be rendering at this time – not just to their own human and greater beingness. That is a major accomplishment in its own right! But even more, it is high service to the greater changes of this creational matrix as well.

We are on track. Please look in your coat pocket and see what your “travel ticket” says.

See you in the Embarkation Lounge.

Postscript

As a personal note, I have spent my human life doing my “homework” and doing intensive “catch-up studies” to prepare for years testing, examining, retesting, assessing, etc. the situation here. Today, I have no doubts as to my assessments as I have presented them to everyone here and no doubt as to my private remarks to those with whom I have been in direct correspondence and discussion. Even recently, I asked myself to run a re-check. No change.

Why Does Everything Seem So Difficult?

August 1

What does so much not “go right” and grates so violently upon one sensibilities?

Why is the larger ascension and transformational process seemingly not supporting each of us well enough in our process?

We are approaching a great bifurcation.

As human selfs, we are mostly (although not everyone) connected to a complex collective larger self. Many in their expanding awareness have become startlingly aware that they are moving about, breathing, eating, etc., in an interdimensional soup of matter and something else which is also interpenetrated with 3d matter. This “soup”, including the body of the Earth, is infested in ways that no one would really want to gaze upon fully. (Why do you think so many clairvoyants and “healers” are limited in their “knowing” and higher abilities?)

Those who are in the leading edge of the changes and allied with the higher light of true creation are beginning to vibrate in ways that are increasingly incompatible with the 3d matrix soup. At times, this can be rough on us. So be extra gentle on yourself.

Why do you think I emphasize detachment, disengagement, and a coming to grips with the realization that there is nothing from the present state of the human sphere of existence and consciousness that can change the situation? Why do I counsel, “please stop!” ?

Readers know from my work that I do not and cannot blame the humans for all that is wrong, for the dark, etc. Humans are unaware, unable for the most part to make true free will choices. Even when making “ethical” choices within the limited parameters of human existence, these well-intentioned ethical choices often come up short or trigger conflict. As potentially spiritual beings, true free will has long been suppressed in this realm and in so many ways humans have been deftly and insanely manipulated by forces mostly unseen and not properly understood.

Some have managed to create and maintain a fairly good bubble of light around themselves, but even so, many have felt a grating incompatibility with so much that has formerly been familiar and seemingly benign.

And so I must emphasize now and again, as I have before, to those who are the leading edge of the leading edge: It is of great importance to decouple from the old and all that is a part of it. The dark is dying and losing its ability to manipulate the larger matrix (but it is not gone from the stage). Those dimensionally nearby lower levels of control then move to greater chaos, collectives of predatory clusters pursuing an inner impulse derived from their most ancient dark source.

Would you go running into the midst of an urban riot into the midst of armed looters during a disaster?

Of course it is easy to be a material success in a corrupted world: all that is required is to surrender to the dark and pay it tribute. Usually the “price tag” is proportionate to the expected material gain. In some cases, there are humans who can be seen as having been taken over by some higher level dark entity. But it is so very difficult to be of the higher light and to be one of those who helps to be an early bridge builders between the higher light into the 3d and related density levels of this realm. So very difficult. And please bear in mind this is not about creating “dying martyrs”. It never was.

More so now than ever before, please attend to your own inner and higher existence. This is your true self and connects to your true family of light. Each time you look outside your “bubble” to check up on the world, you take something of a risk. So, until you “get all memos”, the challenge is to minimize involvement with the old in ways so as not to damage your new light structures. Yes, you can still go to the store, pay a bill, etc. but even the simplest things can go awry due to this growing vibrational bifurcation – even if you are so ever polite, respectful, or gracious. Getting drawn into discussion about the problems of the world, debates over futile issues, reading or listening to all the latest channelled chit chat, etc., or anger and upset over anything, all becomes detrimental to this new something in you that is trying to be born.

A great bifurcation is developing. Some of us may well become bridges between this realm and the improved and upgraded creational matrix, and perhaps bridges to something beyond that even. Maintaining the ordinary human form may not be the case for everyone who is in this bridging capacity. New help is arriving to assist those who most desperately need to leave. I will be writing more about this and the changes to this creation that I am aware of, as well as some new observations on new earth and new humans and new creation.

I will also introduce a delicate topic again and here, that some are coming to a point in their human temporal existence where they will be consciously choosing whether or not to maintain their self in an ordinary human body. This is all about having a prime attractor and not about repulsion to something negative.

The entirety of the human-earth situation in a fallen realm is such that it is very difficult, nearly impossible actually, for the higher transformational energies to protect us and support us at the human level from all that is so very wrong. The time it takes for these new energies to have a more visible effect in the 3d human domain will not be sufficiently “expeditious” for those who simply cannot bear their circumstances any further.

To experience the profound sadness over this now at the higher levels is beyond ordinary tears. This is where we find the true love and loving embrace of our true nature, this is where the high absorption occurs, and this is also being extended now into the human realm in ways that have not been possible heretofore.

At the immediate present, one should not expect these new energies that are coming in to make miracles overnight, to stop a new war, end earthquakes, or cure a disease. Consider rather that this might not be their job and consider further they might not have any interest whatsoever about such human matters. Consider it might actually be doing a great disservice to prolong the illusions and delusions of present-day human existence. Consider that these sentient energies and entities are here to facilitate rapid changes in this reality and to help where possible. The coming near term is likely to be very challenging from the human level of existence and awareness.

We can eventually see and learn and know everything now through the new eyes of our own higher presences. During our transition process, this is also a source of comfort and support.

The End to Suffering and Return of Light

August 2

So many are in anguish over their human existence and the state of the larger human existence. While one can do nothing to change the material situation of the larger human existence, one can address their own to some extent.

To do this requires viewing and regarding one’s human self and human situation from the highest and most encompassing perspective possible. Imagine it if you like.

There are many falsehoods that have trapped the human self and that in turn have caught hold of many larger soul beings. One of the biggest traps is to not be conscious of the truth of ones existence. Another is to project oneself from that which seems to be the present (but which is actually the past) into a future based upon illusions and falsehood. (This might bear reading twice.)

There are myriad tricks that implemented in the human realm to reinforce this materially and psychologically.

At some point, those with a larger worldview see some of the tricks and falsehoods of the human world for what they are. But this is only a human worldview and without a spiritual perspective and proper context, this accentuates the conflictual and destructive nature of a distorted existence.

Those who understand things from a very high spiritual perspective, one that is beyond the fallen realm and its distortions, can at least rest in that larger scope of understanding. This in turns helps properly inform and guide the human self in its existence.

Those who identify themselves as “lightworkers” and oriented toward ascension and higher oneness, etc. too often contemplate the larger scheme of things from only a slightly elevated human awareness. Thus the exigencies of human existence impinge upon gaining an improved understanding.

If you are truly complete and know the truth of your wish lists, etc. then you are free to stay around observing, lending a hand, having a bit of fun or resting if that is possible. If you come to understand that you are not a human, rather something other, then you will be able to work with those sub-conscious facets of your human host self. This beings you closer to being free to leave embodiment in this realm. So many are very afraid of leaving the human physical because they still identify closely with it, and understandably so. One barrier is a lack of knowledge as to practices that are oriented toward completion and building a suitable energy body for ones evolving consciousness. Another barrier is a lack of knowledge and access to means of gracefully ending ones human existence when one is truly ready.

Overall, the major factor is the uncertainty of completion. If you do not feel 100% complete, then you may need to address whatever imagined or perceived “deficiency” there is. As a point or cloud of consciousness, you really do not need a physical vehicle or humanoid-like subtle body. This is a matter of preference. One does find that if a human-like body projection or subtle body is needed, they can form one if needed. Often this occurs from memory of the human template.

It is very important to develop a strong sense of a higher attractor. To pursue a negative course, one that is a reaction to all that is wrong and painful, presents additional impediments. First and foremost is your vibrational state of being. Completion opens up new avenues of freedom to simply be. Perhaps with flowers, children, a loved one, the ocean, etc., or perhaps just to be with oneself. Free.

Unless you have a clean clear copy, notarized, stamped, and certified of some new “mission”, all “spiritual missions” should be considered over and “contracts” null.

Really.

This was not be a place of endless martyrdom of those of the Light. Been there done that, doesn't work. If you knew ahead of time what would occur in a place like Haiti or Fukushima, or Christchurch, or the Gulf Coast region, would you deliberately place yourself there? Why? This line of thought also extends to the collapse and dissolution of human civilization that is now underway.

For myself and others who at a leading edge zone of the larger transformational process, we can stay around here as long as it is appropriate for us to do so. Some of us either have already “gotten the memo” or know it is “in the mail”. Others know that their tenure here is drawing to a close.

Please find clarity as to why you are here, what (if anything) is on your “to-do” list that is essential to your completion process?

I say again, that it is a tremendous act of higher service to become fully engaged with the ascension and transformational process and to decouple from all that is possible of a reality that is scheduled for total changeover.

There Is No Failure

I have written on this repeatedly. We as human aspects of our greater selves can only have good intentions and do our best to follow through on these. We have no control over how such actions may be received or how they may succeed in an realm that has been so distorted by the Dark and its agents.

Now for a slight variation on this:

Too many are overburdened by a sense of “mission” or “karma”. Please get over it. It is no more. For some this might be traced to their initial set of intentions and wishlists prior to entering the human sphere of existence. Some like to wear some version of a “soul contract” like some badge of distinction even when their “mission” is over and done. This is all so easily crosslinked into any on one of myriad mechanisms used to attract and capture some or all of a larger soul being. Unless you have a clearly stated, newly minted, certifiable new “mission”, consider that all “missions” are done, complete, and any related “contracts” hereby complete or otherwise nullified. I am quite serious. This is a “no martyr zone”. There never was and never is anything to be gained by martyrdom. The dark side loves this stuff. Why do you think that martyrdom is so encouraged in this world? Whether it be the dying god on a cross, or the civil disobedience protester who dies under an military tank, or self immolation in a public square.

Please stop.

We have all done our very best under totally impossible and stacked odds. It is high time to recollect ourselves, to gather round for tea and cookies and compare notes and address our own higher knowing and learning from this demented dimension of existence. For some, such readers here, there is also the added quality of addressing our own human aspects with full honor and respect as many are already seeds to a new creational process and a new stage of spiritual evolution. We have done our work, done our service, had our experiences. Now it is time to go on to what we have long anticipated.

Calendars, 2012, Earthchanges

(Early August)

Yes, a major axial and crustal shift/slip is likely and soon enough. But as always, when is “soon”? There is also the question of a massive energy wave from “out there” that can remove all life on this planet as an act of Grace. If and when? I cannot say. But it too is “out there” and incoming.

All “mathematical” projections, numerological systems, and so-called “sacred” (profane) geometry is based upon the dark control paradigms. There are no indigenous cultures or wisdoms extant today that are not heavily infected by the dark.

That all said, it is indeed the case that certain large scale galactic movements were observed and understood from earthly and non-earthly knowledge and have found their way to humans in the present era via various artifacts.

But if all this is changing, then why should any of this be presumed to be true for us today? Humans today like to refer to such foolish notions as “economic laws” as glibly as they foolishly refer to “laws of physics”. Yet at the same time we know these are falsehoods and aberrant constructs. And only are relevant within a cosmically brief period of existence within a bubble in space/time that has been ruled over and messed around with the Dark.

This is in essence no different than humans fancying notions that duality – light and dark, peace and war, suffering and joy, etc. love and hate, are all “universal constants”, part of the “natural order” of existence. And thus presume so wrongly that that is how things are and so accept it and make the best of. Etc., etc., etc.

And this is my answer to calendrical notions. Perhaps there will be some confluence of events in temporal and spatial “coincidence” (in the true meaning of the word) with various solar or other space energies or planetary or cometary bodies that human’s notice whizzing by, etc. And so people will feel comfortable pointing out this or that as the cause. After all that is what people prefer, all neat and tidy. So science types or idiot channellers will debate what caused an axial or crustal shift, or whether the shift or whether a slight shift in Japan or the Antarctic ice caused it, etc. What does it matter? It does not.

The Dark is ending. Will it be over and totally removed in the span of a few human earth years? Not unless 3d and surrounding vibrational densities are completely removed from this creation matrix. As long as the extant human consciousness survives, it will harbor the “malware” and “pathogenic memes” of the dark. It is this that the correction energies are trying to reach, to clear the human levels of consciousness thus better clear the soul levels and allow each to seek its own highest attractor.

An alternative is that what there is here of the true light is removed completely from this dark control matrix and taken “elsewhere” – a possibility that is under consideration.

This is why today it is a matter of ones vibrational state, state of consciousness and not a matter of gross numbers of percentages of humans or whatever the newsfeeds make fanciful stories about. The human nomenclature of angels or demons has no bearing upon any of this.

In looking at this from beyond my human self, I have no worries everything will be set right.

Call to your True Light and call the “particles” of True Light to your self. Ask your True Light to also call to your self. This is a spiritual service involving your greater being as well as to all others who are influenced by you.

-ASK

“A new creational process is underway. It is preparing a new “matter consciousness” before it is manifested and a new spiritual individuation before it is manifested. This new individuation could be regarded as a new human-like entity that initially would not be of ordinary flesh and blood. It would begin with the ability and innate impulse to work co-creatively with matter consciousness while fully connected to the higher oneness. Yet each would be a unique individuation. This is one of the “coming attractions”. Those beings most involved in this new process of creating a higher vibratory “new earth” – a new “creation garden” -- are now very aware of the situation in this vibrational state of humans on earth. Whatever they can do to assist the larger process here will be done.

It is possible that this new effort will be also involved in the remaking of this earth and the remaking of this creation and beyond.”

Critical Mass, the Dark, and Our Situation

August 8

Ten or twenty years ago I too encouraged this notion of “critical mass”. It was compelling as metaphor and analogy and it seemed the preferred way to go for all the right and obvious reasons.

As to global spiritual awakening, most who promoted this failed to pay attention to the higher levels and proceeded on as “centers of attraction” unto themselves, getting famous, writing books, buying summer and winter homes, etc. collecting acolytes, etc. In short, they pursued material success while crossing many fine grey lines.

Upon retrospection, it can be seen as more than just a nice myth. It became a falsehood that served to chain everyone to the lower order of the Dark. Always waiting for everyone to go at once.

Salmon at the mouth of the stream do not “go all at once”. First there are the lead fish, then the rest. The stragglers from the ocean follow the lead of the main packs as they head upstream. It takes time for such a process to complete.

As long there was a "distant" signal, it did not matter a whole lot and many idea and plans were floated and tried (and of course failed) over millennia and the more recent decade or so (in human earth time).

Those who worked to stay true to true creation, higher source, etc. their respective "assessments" of the situation had to be tested, completed, and uploaded to the higher levels for further testing and review. It was essential that the problems in this domain be properly and deeply understood so that the real transformational energies and those who were helping them along could be “configured” correctly.

This has been an exhaustive (and exhausting process) but essential to the correction energies that are now here.

Today the process is refined and detailed in ways that were not possible 10 or 1,000 years ago. Yes, the hand of God, true creator, is in charge and in a very direct way now.

Now it is here and more is incoming. This is far more than the descent of the higher consciousness or the supramental. Far more. This is the total alteration of this creation and the creator level beings most involved here. It means the dissolution and deletion of the cancer of the Dark that spread in this sector and all that engenders and propagates the Dark.

The Dark side is monitoring everything very closely in the human and higher levels. Very closely. It is grabbing all it can grab –just like the human elite who are vacuuming all the wealth of the planet as quickly as possible while they can.

Imagine an industrial fruit processing lines with many streams of fruit diverging from the initial input stream. Some rotting, some cosmetically damaged but good for processing, some perfect looking for raw food, some unripe and unready, etc.

Imagine the Dark side grabbing all those most ripe and ready the moment before they would move to the “perfecting” line. This why I have taken so much trouble to warn about various personages, belief systems, and all of that sort of stuff for so long.

So awakening, spiritual awakening, oneness, all these are terms being co-opted heavily by the dark side. Newagers, religious, politicians, the top elite, the ascended channeled idiots, “ET commander thor”, etc. Caveat emptor.

Much that is so imminent is deliberately being withheld for “security” reasons. If we were to speak of things in detail timelines, there would be unnecessary new interferences by various levels of the Dark.

It is the final minutes of the final hour.

This is not some grand repeating cycle.

All those cycles, to whatever extent they were ever relevant, are over. Let it go.

Done.

Enabling Others Out of This Mess

August 8

This is already occurring, but most quietly.

I have described the general features of this in various articles on ascension and transformation process.

Some who are conduits of the Higher Light will remain in some form here as long as tolerable to help many more to the next stage. At some point they will move on as well, or directly expand their subtle bodies to encompass more of the planetary or cosmic levels of existence.

Some might want to label this the “Christ consciousness energy” but it is far more than any human language labels such as this. And human labels carry hidden “referential vibratory markers” that the Dark uses to divert as many as possible. After all, it was the Dark side that enabled human language and its development to begin with. This is one reason I have been obliged to be “creative” in the my use of words over the years.

Some of these beings (beyond human then) will function somewhat as ushers and some as portals. Some will focus their effort amongst humans on earth, other from the next vibratory levels above. That is what is going on now. And to repeat, there are those who are expanding to encompass much more, including this entire zone of creation and more even. That is how powerful and present the Higher Oneness is at this time. And it is just starting its work here! But it knows how to work quickly as well.

Meanwhile, a little patience.

Blocked? Attacked? Feeling foiled?

Aug 11, 2011 (edited on Dec 10, 2011)

<http://newearthsummit.org/forum/index.php/topic.1243.msg5284.html#msg5284>

Call 1-800-TRUELIGHT, higher level operators are standing by.... all major credit light codes are accepted. ...

Hopefully, my attempt at a little “light” humor will not be misconstrued as disrespectful.

As everyone here knows I find the whole situation so appalling and consider that at higher levels this is painfully understood as well.

Nevertheless, the situation is presently what it is, sorry to say.

As many of the comments at NES forums and elsewhere suggest to me, it is ever more important to attend to ones own higher development, completions, higher attractors, etc. and not to worry over everyone else.

The human self, until it is more fully connected and expanded, simply cannot understand the situation in its fuller context and in so many ways feels left out or otherwise neglected. Of course this not at all right. But it is what it is at this time.

As to all those interdimensional attacks, various dark entities have less and less wiggle room and are more being forced into greater visibility in the lower vibrational domains. So things are getting a bit crowded here. The outer boundaries of the dark zone are being dissolved as well as squeezed in. There are no more places, spaces, or timelines for to hide in. At some point there may be a massive expansion of the true light from within as well.

Overall, it is the larger correction processes that takes precedence. There is tremendous sorrow at the higher levels as to the added difficulties.

Those who simply need to leave will be helped. Those who can stay the course and learn consciously about the transmutative processes will find this essential in their own and their larger self’s evolutionary development.

All of this is ever more reason to decouple, detach, and not get involved in all the dramas. Remove all of yourself that is humanly and non-humanly possible from the control system in every way.

There is nothing to fight over, nothing to save, nothing to fix. Leave it all alone.

Embrace your true light and let your true light embrace you.

For all that is now known, and this is substantial now, things are also getting very, very simple at the same time.

Staying focused on what I have suggested over the months and recent years is difficult enough without engaging or being overly concerned about all the other detritus of the human realm.

By way of analogy, imagine "unlimited free energy" for humans given their present state of consciousness, why not give a child a box dynamite, fusing, matches, and blasting caps?! So human consciousness given its heavily compromised state cannot be allowed out either.

For nearly all, the human self and its mostly distorted and implanted memories will be limited to a nearby vibratory or dimensional state of being for further healing, learning, and clearing.

So, perhaps not more “power” but rather the emergence of our core essence with its essential learning.

So, ever more reason to identify with ones true light, ask ones true light to call to you.

I cannot explain how to look think and sense from ones higher levels. You know when you get there or when you are arriving to a state that is expanded beyond your what has been familiar to your ordinary human self.

To some, it will be so smooth they will only notice at some hindsight from a new plateau of cumulative changes. To others, it will more sudden and dramatic.

For those who are feeling excessively blocked right now, one interim approach is to adopt an “as if” perspective. Imagine you are your higher greater and overlighting higher self. Imagine it. What is your highest advice you give your human or child self? How can you lend comfort to your lower self? How can you help your lower self detach from earthly fears and worries and rest in the higher “you”?

Try it.

The Short of It and the Pure Zone

August 12

Upon waking this morning: There is a zone of truth of the utmost purity, beauty, and clarity. It is very nearby. Like the difference between two zones of water: one dirty turbid water and the other crystal clear fluidity. You need to leave the contaminated zone to get to the pure zone.

While one can sit ashore and profoundly contemplate this and even psychically touch in on it, there is no substitute for swimming in it.

At this point, it may require swimming through a turbid zone with the intent of reaching clearer purer waters.

As it would be if swimming, one cannot take anything and everything with them, certainly not the “kitchen sink” or a backpack full of “stuff”. Okay, maybe fins to swim through it or a surf board to skim over it. But for now the “clear zone” does not yet reach the shores of dry land where you might be standing. Behind you, as you gaze out to what you can feel is there beyond the muddied waters near shore but cannot see, there grows a greater disturbance and chaos of the earth and the human realm that only knows of its seeming prison environment and imminent catastrophe and apocalypse.

At some point you need to fly or swim for it, if the disturbance grows nearer to your own beachhead. Eventually you will need to choose whether to let go of the “kitchen sink” and heavy backpack. If you can sort out your familiar human existence through the exercise of true free will that leads you to a higher completion, the traversing will be relatively easy.

Most of course have not reached “reached the shoreline” and most have no idea it even exists. Some are learning to swim and finding it is not as bad as imagined.

Eventually the last wave will come that will finish the removal of all sources of “disturbance” to the Original Intent of Creation. All will be set right.

There is no nothing to “prove” by standing on the shore any longer than you really need to, perhaps imagining that when all is said and done, you might be one of the “last ones standing”.

There are those rare ones who will be like conduits on dryland for “the wave” that will propagate outward. So the wave is coming from “out there” and from “in here”.

There are bridges to walk over the turbid zone, but they are not quite ready for “heavy traffic”. Some here are traversing back and forth like a good construction crew to make sure all is ready, including the receiving areas on the other side.

Either way, you get to the pure zone. All will be swept up by this “wave”. From within and without. As above and as below.

This may all sound like story metaphor.

However, consider it as if Real.

The Membrane and Your Greater Self

August 12

Move your awareness beyond your immediate subtle bodies that are centered around your human embodiment. Upward and outward.

Extend / expand your inner / higher / true awareness until you are aware of something that might fit the description of a diaphanous or undulating membrane. There are no fixed boundaries. The more energy available, the more this membrane encompasses. This is a "law of energy" that exists within Manifest Creation of The All.

There may also be membranes within membranes, not unlike gigantic amoebic like cells within a larger one.

Perhaps in looking in or upon your larger body, you may find there are all manner of beings, an entire planet even, or perhaps galaxies or universes. If you look closely, like trying to find a single cell in your human body, you even find your “human you” as a point of origin or focus.

This is a space where the “profane geometry” (mistakenly presumed to be “sacred”) of the dark zone has no bearing and no place.

It is an indication of the "body" of your Greater True Self. Some have more than one, but let's not complicate things right now.

Something New... Something Wonderful

August 13

<http://newearthsummit.org/forum/index.php/topic.1243.msg5308.html#msg5308>

Yes, these have all been very interesting and so very relevant discussions and makes me very glad that this forum is serving such a purpose.

The “small miracle” Warren refers to is mostly due to the Intervention as it would apply specifically to Earth in the past and present. There were times when the Dark did not have such a thorough and omnipresent control and when it was possible for higher level beings to “sneak in” and set up collective bubbles based upon the “True Light” that they carried and were connected to.

Even for those hiding here as humans who carried the Original Light, etc. there was very little they could do from the “inside” until the new energies had broken through and connected with the planetary systems and related, eventually providing connections for those who were the first to respond. Many who carried this Light were already too tired to respond initially and are now needing assistance. Sometimes this assistance is like getting your car battery “jumper cabled” and off you go. Sometimes, the vehicle needs to be “towed in” for diagnostics and repairs and upgrades if possible.

Concerning a hitherto little-known “subset”. There is something I have not written much about and only hinted at before and that I will be discuss some in a new Update. This has to do with something that could be regarded as a “sub-atomic level”, the “space between the “atomic cells” where the Dark never penetrated”. This may well relate to the possibility of the Earth effectively “going nova from the inside out” as it moves into a higher vibratory body of collective consciousness. In turn, this becomes a larger level “inside out” that expands the new correction energies, the upgraded extant Creation outward as the Dark zone is further dissolved and squeezed into non-existence.

As to this timeline being all wrong, we are here and that is what it is at this point. I would agree that nothing here went as hoped for or planned in this realm, mostly due to the overwhelming influence of the Dark applying its own perverted creational dynamics to manipulate a pocket of creation for its own ends. The implications of this is still being inferred and analyzed at the highest levels of All Creation.

This is also why an entirely new creational impulse was set forth, one that was inoculated and heavily protected from any access or contamination by the Dark however it might occur from within or without.

This is also why I have now made mention of an entirely new and unique pre-manifestational process underway that is also keeping a close eye on the situation here.

Today, there are bubbles and streams of the True Light here and there, quietly working. They are not to be found on an Internet website and they do not hang out advertisements! Some are already in light body communities and will not be seen by ordinary human eyes.

This is why I have encouraged people over the recent years to be serious about disengaging their enthrallment with a false existence in every way possible and form virtual and physical communities based upon the higher light --and, whenever and wherever possible, to help ease one another's material needs here through simple forms of cooperation. Alas, very few did this of course. And now it is ever more difficult to accomplish in the material realm. Not impossible of course, but it takes a high level of consciousness. Unconsciously many stop part way since this process eventually leads to a decoupling from the identity as human and human self.

In the ordinary level of human intercourse, more ordinary humans will literally be forced into cooperation with one another and of course there will be others who believe themselves “forced” into predation for survival as well.

To help the process for ordinary humans-in-transition and to help guide those already moving into higher consciousness, we described ways to use the control memes in ways that could lead to a smoother transition for many (see the 4 page overview at <http://www.pfcn.net/Bulletins/Political%20c2.1%20CSS-booklet.pdf> - ignore the voting data).

For those who already identify with the higher level consciousness, there were the simple guidelines of trust, caring, service within the higher level unifying context (see <http://www.pfcn.net/Bulletins/Awakened%20Community-%20Nov%202007.pdf>). These were also like future stepping stones so that at least some small portion of human selfs here would be preparing to connect with the new creational energies. These were prepared for those who were ready to become more self-teaching and self-regulating within a higher vibrational context. But again, the vast majority opted to stay focused upon the lurid details of a false world that is descending into its own madness.

There are others who have offered other novel approaches over recent years and decades. All met with similar lack of response and failures. Nevertheless, it was not all for naught and became part of a higher level upload of a detailed assessment of the situation here.

This is something we have tried to explain over the recent years (see Articles section at <http://www.pfcn.net/napsun-bull.html>).

At this point, we have the benefit of most powerful, sophisticated, and refined approach to the most sophisticated and intractable problem within All of Creation, to the best of my knowing. It is what it is.

For those who already “Know” from their own “future knowing” it is done and satisfactorily completed. What remains is to finish the work. We are here now as part of the process of “connecting the dots”. I look at this as part of a grand completion process and master workmen are putting the finishing touches to something New.

Duality and Oneness

August 15

<http://newearthsummit.org/forum/index.php/topic.1253.msg5319.html#msg5319>

The problem of antagonistic polarization or duality exists in a fallen level of existence and was used by the Dark to trap and control various beings and their core energy.

The essence of the true light (divine spark) originates and emanates from the higher oneness that permeates The All.

However, this fallen realm really does operate in the mode of duality and this in turn influences how even those who are more spiritually aware perceive or describe things. It was always set up that way by the dark itself. Those are their playing rules. As below, so above.

Quite a conundrum.

But this diseased bubble is surrounded by an the immensity of a creation realm that is permeated by a higher oneness. At those levels of existence and consciousness it is inconceivable for there to be a realm of such perverted creation as this sector. And therein lies part of the problem that has made it so difficult to effect a correction here.

Once the human awareness and in many cases even the higher awareness properly understands the distinction, it is free to leave and evolve further. If it is mired in the distorted consciousness of this realm, it can only suffer and wait to be removed or "rescued", etc.

It helps to dissociate / detach from this level of existence and crippled awareness and identify with the higher oneness, even if this is an “as if” imaginal exercise for some. That is one place to start at least.

It is possible to flip back and forth between higher oneness and duality/crippled awareness. Likewise it is possible to flip back and forth between the heavily compromised ordinary physical existence as human and the lightbody/higher vibrational vehicle for ones human individuation.

Eventually there is no need to switch back and forth as the distinction is clear and the preference/true free will choosing takes over.

“As above, so even higher...”

What Is the Point?

August 20

This is a little about meaning of life stuff. According to the Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy, the answer is “42” –oh only if it were so simple!

So I offer these opening thoughts for our consideration: What the human self and associated higher levels of being learns from its time in the density of 3d is the meaning of projecting something of itself as a fragment or an aspect into human life on earth.

The relationship can be distant, gently guiding or nudging the human self, or it can be more fully online with more of a two-way flow of awareness between the human self and higher self. Usually it is a mix of both, although much of the time the human self is too focused on its own self and its own seemingly separate existence to notice. For some this relationship may seem symbiotic, to some it can seem parasitic.

A very long time ago, higher level entities could and would park a portion of themselves with one or more humans. Sometimes they would pop in and out from time to time, rather than making it relationship for the duration of the human vehicle's lifespan. This is where some of the mythologies of the humans and gods came from. Some of course came from a more external physical encounters.

The human level of existence provides unique and special access in the density realm of matter and matter consciousness. At the same time there is the facet of individuation that has some correspondence to a higher level of individuation of the soul being as an entity.

I could go on about this, but will keep it short at this point.

To me, biological life in general is a complex set of structures and dynamic processes that are all part of the process of manifestation of the density. Some life carries certain qualities of an individuated-self sentiency, some carry more a collective-self sentiency. Some carries only the basic consciousness that underlie bio-chemical-mechanical impulses.

One of the corruptions of this world by the Dark was the dominance in the 3d level of a food chain and parasitism that corresponds to their own perverse food chain in the “as above” of the higher vibrational worlds of the Dark. As well, there was the problem of decay and consumption. All corruptions of the primary intention for this world.

To move to something else suggested by this question, there are those beings that are very happy to simply “be” –and there are those beings that not only enjoy the amazing wonder of “being”, they are also directly and deliberately involved in new creational processes. But for the human level, much more is required than simply “to be” or to marvel at “being”.

One of the original impulses of the highest levels of creation is to not only to create and but to evolve the All of Itself. And there is another facet to this: to go beyond the entirety of manifest reality and its own enormous vastness, beyond the Greater Void that is Beyond Itself as It Knows Itself.

This is one of the original “reasons” to create “Baby” and the why the formation of a new creation matrix. (Something we wrote about in the July and Aug-Sept 2007 Global Awakening News.) This was to give rise to an entirely new creation system that potentially would equal It but in entirely unique ways. It was the highest levels of Creation that gave birth to “Baby” in the first place. There is Something of even greater potential “out there” and It knows it. But it takes enormous energy to reach out beyond its own vastness. “As above, so even higher” might be one way of putting it.

So the impulse to explore, to learn, to grow, to evolve, is innate to the highest levels of creation and this impulse is innate in all of its holographic fragments or aspects of Itself – in the Divine Spark of Creation as we might call it.

At the human level there is the individuation of the divine spark of consciousness (aspects of a true soul being). That individuation was partly to be a type of self-aware eyes and ears, etc. of the greater creation looking at the details of its vastness, and then to turn around with this learning and be able to look out across all vibratory dimensions.

Earth was intended as a creational garden for higher self / soul beings to learn and develop into potential creator beings. And a big surprise came of this: the human individuation aspect has potential to form the nucleus for a new type of spiritual being.

Of course the big problem/complication was the overlay and takeover by the Dark of this realm.

And so here we are.

The outcome, from multiple perspectives, is that the original intention of creation for the human-earth experimental garden will be fulfilled and with added benefits, some arising despite the efforts of the Dark to seize control over it all.

A “happy story”, it would seem. But from the human self that is not aware, it is not likely to be seen that way in the short term.

Further Thoughts on...

“We Are Here To Go”

August 21

<http://newearthsummit.org/forum/index.php/topic,1245.msg5338.html#msg5338>

Consider that for those who are most ready “to go”, that this is not so much a matter of “leaving here”, rather it is a matter of “going to”. Hence the higher attractor suggestions I have been making.

Consider you are being offered a choice of two passages right now: One is to exit this vibrational state entirely and enjoy much needed rest and recuperation and reassessment of your situation as an evolving spiritual entity -- your human as well as your greater other self. The other ticket is to stay around (embodied) a while longer – as long as is tolerable as I have said. Perhaps there are only a small number of reserved seats for opening night. Perhaps this is because those who choose this second option will require special attention and care.

What might this “second option” be?

Consider the possibility of the spiritualization of your human form and local energy structures. What could this mean? No one knows. We have only the reports from Mirra and colleagues of their early attempts at descending the supramental energy body into the 3d realm – and the reports from those who have experienced similar changes during near death experiences and extremely intense episodes of higher seeing when something of the higher body began to come in to the 3d vibrational realm.

So for those wondering why I am interested in staying around a while longer, this is a hint. There are no guarantees, no factory warranties. Some may not make it through the process and will be removed from this vibrational state anyway.

For those who choose the second option, it is a good idea to take extra good care of your physical vehicle and your exterior situation with regard to living environment and your interactions with other humans.

Those who are of a spiritually evolving human consciousness are not only dealing with the terrible influences of the dark control systems in the 3d and higher levels, there is also the problem of existing in a parasitic physical environment dominated by a food chain as well as the tendencies of decay and disease. The parasitic food chain is a direct result of the dark influence here. It is not a “normal” state of “nature”.

The conversions of a distorted matter into spiritualized matter state is a microcosmic counterpart to a larger process of converting the entirety of this planet into a type of spiritualized matter. That in turn is connected to the re-making of this portion of creation and beyond.

“Wanna take a ride?” (Hadden to Ararray in “Contact”)

...More to come on this.

Observer Self, Detachment, and Identifying Your High Attractor

August 28

<http://newearthsummit.org/forum/index.php/topic,1243.msg5378.html#msg5378>

Many spiritual "systems" teach something about the "observer self"

This helps develop detachment.

Detachment can lead to a healthy dissociation from the falsehoods of this reality, or an unhealthy version.

But most do not teach about identifying with ones higher self; even fewer teach anything about the true or higher Oneness that permeates all creation, but is suppressed in this realm (until recent breakthroughs).

The human self may become aware of its potential as a true spiritual being, but it also needs to understand this cannot be realized without connection to higher Oneness.

So for those who have a soul being relationship, it is important to connect as a partner entity to your higher soul being. This leads to greater spiritual realization.

Intend this connection. Help make it a mutual attraction.

The observer self is useful in providing some perspective, sometimes. But this also can lead to an unproductive dissociation. Limiting oneself to being an observer implies very little is learned directly, thus very little spiritual evolutionary progress is made. It also makes it difficult to descend any more of your greater being, thus also limiting the potentials for transformation at the human subtle or physical levels.

After all, the human “you” may also have something to contribute to your greater self. Indeed!

Of the Higher Oneness

Tuesday Aug 30

<http://newearthsummit.org/forum/index.php/topic,1245.msg5385.html#msg5385>

Please, there is no need whatsoever to fight the Dark, to oppose them, to do battle, or anything along these lines.

Please, do not embrace the Dark either. There is nothing there to embrace. Absolutely nothing.

Either way, these only serve to attract or invite the Dark and its denizens, including those humans who may be in resonance with such.

Please stop.

Indeed, the Dark is a consciousness and it has an object to itself, an agenda. But you do not need to be a part of this, rather be apart from it. This is a facet of your detachment from the human and non-human levels and manifestations of the darkness.

With detachment can come a great peace.

The Higher Oneness is vibrating through a continuous and moving wave pattern whose intensity will be increasing.

All that which vibrates as part of this wave will continue, what does not, will not continue.

You do not need to concern yourself with that which does not.

This is an internal signature and there is nothing you as a human self can do to alter this.

Pay attention to your vibratory state of being. Words can only suggest.

This higher vibratory state is what is Real.

It is that simple.

Private Sessions:

A “Limited Offer” for A Limited Time

In response to the changes occurring and the likelihood that I will not be available to people to the extent that I am now, I would like to make this effort to be of assistance to those who are in the process of making enormous changes in their awareness and to their existence. Some of you may find yourselves in more of a role in teaching and helping others.

I have long decried the charging of money for spiritual information and spiritual knowledge as that should not be charged for, unless it is simply the cost of reasonably priced books.

What I offer is not focused on spiritual “information”, rather it is about learning to discern for oneself, learning patterns that can support higher level discerning, and developing better internal self referencing.

This is not about studying anything, other than your own internal faculties and developing your higher faculties. This in turn facilitates bridging your human and higher self. I have posed difficult questions for readers to contemplate, such as what is the deeper learning of your own human existence and that of humanity as a whole, etc. I have challenged everyone to address their own completions and to probe deeply into their higher attractors.

I am charging for my time partly because I choose to and partly because it sets up the right sort of “at-tension” to help pay closer attention. Some who are reading this have the potential to be teachers and guides to others during this transition period. (As some here know, I do not ask for payment from those who simply have not the money. If you wish to contribute towards those who may not have available funds, please let me know.)

It was plain from earlier open discussion sessions that there was a wide range of cognitive capacity and maturity. Those stuck in old spiritual beliefs and patterns found it hard to move forward and those who seem more advanced in their understanding found the content not challenging enough for them. (Of course those who tend to be more advanced in their spiritual knowledge often can learn a great deal by simply paying attention to where others are in their process and thus learn more about their own in the process of a deeper listening.)

As it was when I was a consultant many years ago, my time and attention would be retained through a monthly or quarterly fee. Unlike when I was a consultant in the diseased “matrix world”, I will consider a sliding scale. The suggested fee is $500 to $1000 per month, paid in advance, depending on how much personal time you would like each week.

Sessions will be conducted by phone and email as may be appropriate. Each week we will set aside time for phone sessions for each person. If possible, I may be able to arrange a one or two-way online video link to add a little more “personal” effect.

For those who wish to meet in person for a period of time, we will help you with a price range of suggested accommodations that are within a reasonable drive to where we are. You will need to cover all your own expenses. Time spent here will include a great deal of outdoor time, especially on and in the ocean.

You will get out of these sessions what you put into it. They will be challenging in many ways, for you as well as for me. My role is to facilitate your process and the agenda is yours. I am not going to give you advice on what to do with yourself and I am not going to be doing formal “readings”.

There is also some possibility that John Crawford will be joining in on some of these sessions.

In the course of these, I use a combination of deeper questioning and mirroring, didactic approaches including stories, and direct analysis to assist you in your process. At times I might ask you to read certain material that will mostly be available as online files.

But if you think this is “merely” about ideas, thoughts, and thought process, “think again”!

This is really about pure and direct investigation by you, of your own core consciousness. We begin with a confidential questionnaire that includes essay style questions and a general waiver/disclaimer. Those who will be participating will also have a copy of my official and non-official bio’s for their reference. If it is possible, I will consider a secure video hookup via web browser, but no promises.

I am glad to have a short introductory email and phone visit with you if you wish to make this a first step in the process.

What you email me and what we cover in these sessions, will not be shared with anyone else.

An Invocation, An Intention, An Attention

Please feel free to adapt this in a manner that works best for you. Please do attend to this evening before retiring and during the day as well.

 I call upon my lower, middle and higher self. I call to my highest source origins and connection to the highest levels of true Oneness and Creator of All.*

 I invite and call upon the fullest extent of the highest of the correction energies to enter and descend my entire being down to my human levels and beyond.*

 I also invite and call upon the fullest extent of the highest of the correction energies to enter and flow through the space between my atoms and create and maintain a continuous flow through the entirety of all of my being.*

 I also call to me all the particles of the true light in my being and ask the particles of true light in my being to also call to me.*
